Permission Reported Given Fleet To Pass Through Dardanelles

Spread Of War To Balkans Seems Inevitable Turkish Press Declares On Eve Of Opening Of Parliament

By HAROLD A. PETERS

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 17.—The British eastern Mediterranean fleet may soon be steaming through the Dardanelles into the Black Sea to challenge the Germans on the Rumanian coast.

According to diplomatic sources at Belgrade, Anthony Eden has arranged with the Turks to allow part of the British fleet to go through the Dardanelles and preparations are reported to be under way at this moment.

According to these reports, Russia has given its approval to the plan.

Persistent rumors are also circulating in diplomatic circles that Russia and Britain are planning to follow a parallel course so far as the Dardanelles and Turkey are concerned.

ISTANBUL, March 7.—(AP)—Turkish newspapers warned the nation strongly today against accepting German assurances and declared the spread of the war to the Balkans seemed inevitable.

Outlines Policy

FOREIGN MINISTER SUKRU SARACOGLU, above, will outline Turkish foreign policy at a meeting of the People's Party—Turkey's only political party—on Monday morning, it has been disclosed. With the tense situation prevailing at present in the Balkans, his statement is being anxiously awaited.

These statements were made as it was announced Turkish foreign policy would be outlined by Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu next Monday morning at a closed session of the People's Party — Turkey's only political party—in Ankara.

That afternoon the national assembly will open its sessions to be devoted to both external and internal affairs.

MICHAEL GETS LIFE TERM IN PENITENTIARY

Pleads Guilty To Armed Robbery and Criminal Assault

Terming his crime "a most heinous one," Mr. Justice W. R. Howson in Supreme court Friday sentenced Gordon Michael, Edmonton laborer, to life imprisonment on a charge of rape. Accused entered a plea of guilty to the charge when arraigned.

On a charge of robbery while armed Michael was sentenced to serve 10 years in Prince Albert penitentiary, and on a theft of an automobile charge he received a four-year term.

The charges arose out of an armed hold-up and criminal assault on November 20, 1940, when accused entered the East Bittern Lake teach-erage and at the point of a revolver compelled Mrs. Dorothy Lomnes to truss up her husband, Harry Lomnes, after compelling the husband to tie her legs with wire.

FLED IN AUTO

Following the atrocities committed at the lonely teacherage Michael fled the scene in the Lomnes' motor car. This was found abandoned a few days later, and the accused was arrested in a lumber camp in Northern Alberta near Lesser Slave Lake.

Following his arrest accused made statements to the police admitting he had been implicated in the crime.

Today's War Moves

By J. W. T. MASON
British United Press War Expert
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

FOLLOWING the recall to Berlin a few days ago of Gen. Eugene Ott, German ambassador to Japan, reports from Tokyo say Foreign Minister Matsuoka is considering going to Berlin himself, presumably because of changes in the European situation which might affect Japan. It would be almost, if not quite, unprecedented for a Japanese foreign minister to proceed to Europe during his term of office and only serious problems would justify such a journey to the Japanese people.

Two new complications which concern Japan have occurred in the European conflict since Germany's plunge into the troubled Balkan waters. They are of sufficient potential gravity to produce a natural uneasiness in Tokyo and are revealing to the

34 French Army Generals "Fired"

VICHY, March 7.—(BUP)—War Minister Gen. Charles Huntziger today issued a single decree "retiring" 34 Generals who commanded forces defeated by Germany last spring and named an equivalent number of Colonels to succeed them.

REFUSE PERMIT TO NORTHWEST AIRLINES INC.

Will Not Be Given Permission To Fly Over Canadian Territory

By THOMAS WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, March 7.—Northwest Airlines Inc., an American air service will not be given permission to fly over Canadian territory on a through route to Alaska.

Commander C. P. Edwards, deputy minister of transport stated definitely today. The only license granted to American companies to fly into Canada is that permitting Western Air Express to fly from Great Falls, Montana to Lethbridge to connect with Trans-Canada, and a similar service by Northwest Airlines between St. Paul and Winnipeg."

No application has been made by Northwest Airlines to Ottawa for a through service over Canadian territory. If such application is made it will without doubt be rejected, Canadian policy being to restrict air services in Canadian territory to Canadian air lines, except short runs over the border to connect with Canadian systems.

Northwest Airlines is reported planning through service of 21-passenger airliners from St. Paul to Fairbanks via Regina, Edmonton, Grande Prairie and Whitehorse. As Canadian airlines already provide adequate service over these routes no American company will be allowed to come in and compete. If business warrants 21-passenger airliners, Canadian airlines will provide them.

Northwest is reported to have applied to Washington for a license to operate an airmail, express and passenger service from St. Paul to Fairbanks, Alaska, through Canada. Washington may grant a license in American territory but can give no authorization over Canadian territory.

TWO BOMBERS ARE DOWNED BY BRITISH GUNS

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—The second Nazi bomber of the day—a Heinkel III which attacked a British convoy in the North Sea early today—was shot down in flames, the Admiralty announced tonight.

A Dornier was shot down off the Norfolk coast.

Other daylight raiders were active in the vicinity of an East England town, having flown through rain and fog which restricted visability over Dover Strait.

There was little aerial activity over Britain during the night, although London had its 501st alarm of the war.

A communique said several houses were damaged and "a small number of casualties caused" by a plane which dropped bombs on a town in West England.

Raiding planes were reported over northeast, west and south England, the Midlands and South Wales this afternoon.

BRITISH SEIZE FIVE FASCIST SHIPS IN PORT

Four Others Are Scuttled During Combined Drive On Chisimaio

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—The admiralty announced today that with the capture of the port of Chisimaio in Italian Somaliland, five Italian merchant ships totaling 28,153 tons were seized and four others scuttled. A 7,000-ton German vessel was captured, but later sank in tow.

The capture of Chisimaio and Mogadiscio in the Somaliland offensive, by co-ordinated British land and naval action, was said in an earlier admiralty announcement to have eliminated the chief bases for Axis surface raiders in the Indian ocean.

GERMANS LOSE SHIPS

"It can now be stated that five Italian merchant ships with a total tonnage of 28,153 tons fell into our hands as a result of the capture of Port Chisimaio in Italian Somaliland," said the second admiralty communique.

"These ships are the Adria, 3,809 tons; Savoia, 5,490 tons; Erminia Mazella, 5,742 tons; Monon, 5,895 tons, and Leonardo Da Vinci, 7,515 tons.

"Four other ships scuttled themselves in Chisimaio harbor. One of these is known to be the Italian Marghera, 4,531 tons.

"Losses also were inflicted on the German mercantile marine as a result of Chisimaio. The German Uckermark, 7,051 tons, attempted to escape. She was intercepted by our forces and tried to scuttle herself. This attempt was frustrated but the Uckermark subsequently sank while in tow.

SHROPSHIRE IN ACTION

The earlier communique reviewed the naval and land co-ordination in the Somaliland drive.

One outstanding naval action, it said, was the bombardment of Mogadiscio by the cruiser Shropshire. In shelling the harbor the Shropshire sank the 6,861-ton Italian tanker Pennsylvania and caused "a large number of military casualties."

The Shropshire suffered no casualties.

All important Italian positions along the coast were bombarded by our naval units," the communique said, adding that these attacks were carefully co-ordinated with the army's advance.

The naval assaults progressed from Chisimaio, the first Somaliland port occupied by the British forces, up the coast to Brava, the next to fall, and to Mogadiscio, the colony's capital and major seaport.

It said effectiveness of the naval support was indicated by the quick British drive to Mogadiscio which fell Feb. "3, 11 days after the capture of Chisimaio, an advance of some 250 miles.

Legislature Passes War Savings Resolution On Division By 35-18 Vote

By a vote of 35 to 18 the legislature on Thursday adopted the resolution, moved by Premier William Aberhart, that the Dominion war stamps and certificates campaign be endorsed; that every Alberta citizen should co-operate with the government in every reasonable way in winning the war and that there should be adopted "effective methods of financing the war and preparing for the post war period by the national control and issue of money and credit without inflation."

Hopes expressed by the Premier that his motion would receive unanimous support went by the wayside when the Independents stood solidly in opposition to it.

In the vote, the government ranks were solidly in favor of the resolution, while it also drew support from Angus J. Morrison, Labor, Edson, who seconded the motion.

The debate, commenced Wednesday, had been one of the liveliest and stormiest heard in the house for some time. Unfinished when the house adjourned Wednesday it was resumed Thursday and consumed most of the sitting period.

A. E. Fee, S.C., Sedgewick, who adjourned debate Wednesday, was the first speaker. He was followed by N. B. James, S.C., Edmonton, and then the Premier gave his address in closing debate.

NO CO-OPERATION

"I am afraid that my appeal has fallen to the ground," said the Premier in opening his address in closing debate. "I am not going to get any co-operation at all from the op-

Nazis Exhaust Surprise Power Pole Tells Nation

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—Gen. Kazinierz Sosnkowski, minister without portfolio in Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski's Polish cabinet, declared in a British Broadcasting Corporation Polish program today that the essential circumstance dominating the entire war situation is that the Germans have almost completely exhausted the possibilities of political and strategical surprise.

He added that the German war machine almost certainly has reached its peak of production.

"Even if there is not a shortage of labor, which can be supplied by ruthless exploitation of occupied countries, the question of raw materials and the air menace to centres of production remain a brake and hindrance to the Germans."

Assault On Greece To Be Directed At Eastern Macedonia

More Than 150,000 German Troops, Hundreds Of Tanks and Armored Cars Said Poised For Quick Attack

SOFIA, March 7.—(AP)—Neutral military observers heard tonight that German tropos massed on the Greek and Turkish frontiers may launch an attack from Bulgaria on eastern Macedonia and Thrace "within 48 hours".

More than 150,000 Nazi tropos, hundreds of tanks and armored cars already are in position for a quick attack, it was said.

With the Axis push expected at any moment, diplomatic observers watched Yugoslavia and Turkey for indications of how those two Balkan entente allies of Greece would behave when Hitler's army starts rolling.

From the heights south of Latograd, the Germans massed on the frontier could see the waters of the Aegean across the Greek border.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 7.—(AP)—Greece bolstered fortifications in the Struma river valley in Macedonia today as a German expeditionary force in Bulgaria commandeered every available means of transport to rush troops toward her northern frontier.

It appeared to observers that Gen. Alexander Papagos, commander-in-chief of the Greek army, intended to abandon Thrace as indefensible and attempt to make a stand against the threatened German invasion along the natural bastion of the Struma.

There were reports that the

R.A.F. COASTAL BOMBER SINKS SUPPLY VESSEL

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—Bombers of the Royal Air Force coastal command swept across the Netherlands coast this afternoon, sank a German supply ship and bombed the Den Helder naval harbor, it was announced officially.

Aircraft of the coastal command this afternoon sank an enemy supply ship off the Dutch coast," the communique said.

"They also bombed the naval harbor at Den Helder and the enemy-occupied airdrome at Ockenburg. None of our aircraft is missing from this operation."

The supply ship was described by the Canadian sergeant-pilot credited with sinking her as of 2,500 tons. He said a direct hit was scored on her stern with the first heavy bomb dropped.

"There was a great explosion and clouds of smoke and steam rolled over the ship," the air ministry quoted the Canadian.

MOSCOW, March 7.—(AP)—Tass, Soviet news agency, said today:

"The foreign press circulates rumors that the U.S.S.R. has demanded from Rumania cession of her naval base on the Black Sea. Tass is authorized to deny these reports as fabricated and absurd.

FIRMNESS BY YUGOSLAVIA IS DEMANDED

Three Opposition Parties Ask Government To Be Firm With Axis

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 7. — (AP) — Three opposition political parties of Yugoslavia demanded today that the government pursue a firm policy in the face of Axis demands.

The parties participating are the democratic, radical and Yugoslav Nationalist.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 7—(AP)—With a Yugoslav statement reiterating the country's neutrality expected within a few hours, it was learned authoritatively today that Regent Prince Paul was received last Monday by Hitler at Berchtesgaden.

The regent's visit to Berchtesgaden followed a trip there by Premier Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Cincar-Markovic. They were received by Hitler Feb. 14, discussing possible adherence to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis.

DEEPENS FRIENDSHIP

As a result of their visit and Prince Paul's, it was believed the anticipated Yugoslav statement would proclaim a deepening of this country's "friendship" with the Axis.

Diplomatic quarters expressed belief, however, that Yugoslavia — under intense pressure to choose between the Axis and Britain—also would restate her strict neutrality.

16 AXIS CRAFT BAGGED IN RAID ON MALTA BASE

Five German Fighters and Two Bombers Downed By R.A.F. Planes

CAIRO, March 7 — (AP) — A mass raid by more than 100 German planes on Britain's Mediterranean fortress at Malta in which 16 dive bombers, bombers and fighters of the attacking force were shot down was disclosed by the British command today.

Rapid British progress to Fer-Fer, in the Somaliland-Ethiopian frontier region, and a slower advance to a point east of Amanit on the Gondar road north of Lake Tana in Ethiopia, also were reported.

NO R.A.F. CASUALTIES

The Royal Air Force lost one fighter in the violent battles which occurred over Malta when the Germans attacked in waves Wednesday.

There was some damage to buildings but no R.A.F. casualties.

Nine aircraft were brought down by anti-aircraft fire, the communique said, and the rest by fighter planes. Many others were believed to have been damaged.

There has been considerable activity by British forces at Cheren, in Eritrea, while a supply depot at Asmara, the capital, was attacked.

Ethiopian patriots have taken 800 prisoners from among the Italian forces retreating from Burye, whose capture by British command was announced Wednesday. Burye is south of Lake Tana and about 150 miles northwest of Addis Ababa.

DRIVE OFF GERMANS

The prisoners were in addition to 1,700 regular and colonial troops who deserted the Italians.

Fer-Fer lies about 100 miles northwest of Buloburti on the road toward Harar, Ethiopia. It is more than 300 miles from the border of Kenya Colony, where the British drive into Somaliland started, and more than 100 miles inland from Villaggio Degli Abruzzi, which was taken Sunday.

In Libya, the communique issued last night said destruction of "enemy" (presumably German) fighting vehicles were driven off in a brush west of El Agheila, while in Ethiopia revolting natives were harassing the withdrawing Italians and inflicting "substantial casualties."

"So far the number of prisoners taken exceeds 10,000," the communique added.

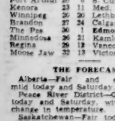

On the diplomatic front, Tewfik Souedy Bey, foreign minister of Iraq, arrived in Cairo last night, presumably to see British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and other officials.

Report Is Seen Leading To New Order In Canada

CALGARY, March 7—(CP)—If Canada is to have "a blue print for a new order" it should be the Rowell-Sirois report, Dr. E. A. Corbett, director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education told the Canadian Club here Thursday.

The conference called by Ottawa to study the report "failed because of the indifference and ignorance of Canadians concerning its contents," said Dr. Corbett.

Today's War Moves

The first complication is the disturbed relations between Germany and Russia due to Moscow's publicly announced objection to the entrance of German troops into Bulgaria. For three nights in succession the Moscow radio has broadcast Russia's rebuke to Bulgaria, which means indirectly a rebuke to Germany, and the Japanese must give serious consideration to this fact.

PLAN BROKE DOWN

One of Japan's principal reasons for joining the Triple Alliance was an assurance that Germany would persuade Russia to improve relations with the Japanese. Berlin was confident of its influence at Moscow but the plan broke down.

Japan's ambitions to expand Nipponese influences southward naturally are hampered by uncertainties regarding her relations with Russia. To better these relations has been one of the prime bases of the foreign policy of the present Japanese government.

The second complication in the Balkan situation which Japan cannot see is Bulgaria's adhesion to the Triple Alliance with the possible consequence of a British attack on Bulgaria.

Will the British do retaliate against Bulgaria's aid to Germany then the Bulgars, under the terms of the Triple Alliance pact, would be entitled to demand military help from the Japanese.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON and Berlin each brand as a "propaganda" move of the other the Balkan report that Russia has demanded Black Sea bases of Rumania. That leaves out a third significant possibility.

The circulation of that rumor might be traceable to Moscow. If it were, Russia's motive could be, true or false, a clue to Russian policy. Its timing suggests it was Moscow-aimed at Yugoslavia which is now reported on the verge of adhesion to the Axis Balkan bloc.

The pertinent fact is that uneasy Moscow has already formed one busy finger into the Balkan pie by glowering at Bulgaria for accepting Nazi military overlordship. The new "ultimative" rumor appears to be a follow-up. It well might sway Yugoslavian action.

Russia's social and cultural ties with Balkan Slava are closer than with the Bulgars, or with the Turks, for that matter. Hence the Russian "good neighbor" doctrine is a marriage of economic convenience and necessity.

Russian acquiescence in the west is to be recalled. A sort of passive partnership with Germany has netted Moscow much in territory and an extended Baltic sea frontage; but has not obtained a free outlet from that sea for Russian ocean commerce.

The Germans' astride the outlets to the North Atlantic could bottle up Russia in the upper Baltic.

Similarly astride the Dardanelles, or dominating the Aegean end of the passage from air and submarine bases in Greek Macedonia, the Nazis could also shut Russia's ocean commerce backdoor. Russia's position at this critical moment cannot overlook such a threat.

Japan in the far east, seeking Atlantic domination as her share of the Axis axe spoils, holds a veto over Russian Pacific outlets. That leaves Russia only her Murmansk route in the icy reaches of the North Atlantic. It is an all-year port, but utterly unsuited for fostering great commerce.

It all adds up increasingly to major war possibilities for Hitler in the Balkans if he strikes at Greece. That Russian factors are disturbing Berlin is obvious.

ITALIAN ARMS ARE WIELDED BY GREEK FIGHTERS

By ROBERT BUNNELLE

LONDON, March 7—(AP)—British is speeding enough captured Italian military supplies to Greece to equip an entire army corps and some of this equipment already is in use against its former owners in Albania, a neutral military source said today.

Besides the materials going to Albania, considerable quantities are destined for the Greek forces now forming lines to guard the Aegean port of Salonika against a German thrust.

"The supplies also will be ready if British tries to invade the Italian mainland from Albania," the neutral informant said.

"Just as the Germans used abandoned British and French dumps to supply their Panzer divisions in the continental campaign last year, the British are using windfalls of Italian conquests in Africa to support much of the Middle East operations."

He said British military and diplomatic strategists are working hand in hand in the Mid 'e East to block Hitler and prepare the way for a try at a quick Italian knockout, possibly by a check at the mainland following up trial parachute troop sorties in mid-February.

OTTAWA PLANS PIECE WORK IN SMALL PLANTS

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, March 7.—Plans to line up small industries such as machine shops and forges for piece work in the Canadian war effort are under discussion in the department of national war services today.

Attending the conference, held in the office of R. J. Waterous, director of material resources, were W. H. Monahan, representing Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and Walter S. Campbell, representing Alberta and British Columbia.

Many small contracts, it was indicated, can be handled in small shops, and efforts to distribute the work of war industry into towns and cities not generally regarded as industrial are behind the current discussions.

NEW WAR WORK

At the same time, Canadian branches of several departments of the war work in Britain and other dominions are to be located here shortly, if present negotiations pan out. Steps along this line will be kept secret for the time being.

Mr. Monahan is an engineer and industrialist who operated a lignite briquetting plant in the Estevan field after two earlier attempts failed. He also developed the creosoting industry in Saskatchewan and Campbell lives at Edmonton and is a former president of the Alberta Petroleum Producers' Association.

CREATE FRAMEWORK

The framework of a national organization will be created along lines to be announced. The head office will be in the war services department at Ottawa, but it has not been decided whether regional offices will be opened. Contacts will be sought with individual industries, boards of trade and all industrial organizations. To this way a comprehensive survey of all unused industrial capacity, almost all of which now lies only in small plants, Local committees are already being formed in British Columbia to line up possible capacity.

The current plan to mobilize industry will assist in decentralizing war work, now concentrated largely in Ontario and Quebec. In later stages it will aid in locating refugee industry, it is expected.

GERMANS MAY ENTER GREECE IN 48 HOURS

Greeks already were clearing civilians out of Thrace—the northeastern province along the Turkish border which Bulgaria long has coveted as an outlet to the Aegean sea.

Greek diplomatic quarters here said the Greek army "absolutely will fight any German invader" and expressed a belief that Turkey would dispatch troops into the Rhodope mountains in Thrace to help stem any Nazi attack.

The Struma river runs in a generally north and south direction from the Bulgarian border east of Nagyon, a distance of some 60 miles, entering the sea at the Gulf of Orfani (Rendina) east of Salonika. The river passes through Lake Takhinos before entering the Aegean about 10 miles west of the Turkish border.

Should the Greeks elect to make a stand along this line, abandoning Thrace, they would have a section little more than 25 miles wide to defend along the Bulgarian frontier.

Reports reaching here said the Greeks are sending artillery into the Struma valley.

PRESS VALONA DRIVE

Meanwhile it was believed the Greeks plan an intensive effort to capture the Albanian port of Valona from the Italians to anchor the eastern end of the battle line before the Nazis can launch an attack.

German preparations were evident on all sides as Nazi troops rolled toward the Greek frontier in trains, trucks, busses and even private cars.

Since the end of October, the Germans have been concentrating stocks of oil and food in Bulgaria. These now are being moved up toward the Greek border.

Further evidence of the expected German drive was seen in the arrival in Sofia of throngs of uniformed Nazi war correspondents as well as an increased number of army officers.

Final Report On Alaska Highway Expected Soon

VICTORIA, March 7.—(CP)—A final report on feasible routes for the proposed British Columbia-Alaska highway should be complete by June, Hon. Charles Stewart, chairman of the Canadian section of the joint Canadian-United States highway commission, said Thursday. The commission completed a sitting here Wednesday.

He confirmed that arrangements had been made for a joint meeting of the Canadian and American commissions in Washington, D.C., March 28. Following that meeting, he said, the Canadian commissioners will be in a position to go ahead with their final report on the proposed routes for the road.

believed the government also would indicate its attitude toward a threatened invasion of Greece by Germany.

"Against a handful of birdshot reassurances that the Axis has flung at us stand 2,000,000 Turkish bayonets," Foreign Minister Demirai Politika said today.

"If Germany comes this way she will get such an answer to these assurances as she never got before."

The newspaper Vatan said: "If Germany attacks the Balkans she will see the end to her terrorism and the new order will indeed be installed in the world, but it will be a new order-depending on respect of liberty for all."

RAPS SOVIET POLICY

For the first time a Turkish newspaper criticized Russia's Balkan policy, and that came when Tasviri Efkar declared:

"The whole Balkan situation can be laid at Russia's door. If Russia had not taken Bessarabia, Rumania would not have been frightened and would not have allowed Germany to enter. Then we might have preserved the Balkan entente and the Balkans might have been defended."

The newspaper Ikdam commented: "Assurances calm on us from all sides since the German invasion of Bulgaria, but the Balkanboys which put babies to sleep, but fortunately Turkey is no baby. We know that it is countries to which assurances are given that are in danger."

By WITT HANCOCK

ANKARA, March 6 — (AP)— Turkey last night adopted a waited-see attitude with the extent of British military force said to be a prominent factor in her policy-making.

Now that Germany is her next-door neighbor in occupied Bulgaria, Turkey is strengthening her defence preparations, but most observers agree that the prospects of her being thrown into war immediately are remote.

AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS

1—What Yugoslavia does.

2—Whether Germany can force Greece into an armistice with Italy, and, if not,

3—How successfully Britain goes to the aid of the Greeks against the Germans.

An answer to Hitler's note Tuesday to President Ismet Inonu in which he is reported to have offered assurance that Germany has no aggressive aims against Turkey and that she wants only to look after Turkey's "interest and well-being" may be delivered by the Turkish ambassador to Berlin during the week-end.

The answer is expected to be cautiously worded, probably avoiding committing Turkey to any definite line.

Concern as to Yugoslavia's intentions was expressed directly last night by the Turkish radio in a broadcast which said that the Germans intended to establish Black Sea and Aegean bases to control the eastern Mediterranean.

PRESSURE ON TURKEY

Such bases, in co-operation with those of the Italians in the Dodecanese, would "exert a great amount of pressure" on Turkey, the commentator observed but, he added, "this glorious plan will be difficult to apply especially if Yugoslavia starts to fight."

SALVAGE DRIVE LOOKING LIKE BIG BUSINESS

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, March 7.—Canada's salvage campaign is beginning to look like a big business, after several weeks of preparatory work, and the national war service department now expects to save the country at least $20,000,000 a year in metals, bones, paper and other waste items.

Officials said today that Winnipeg ranked high in the response already noted. The campaign depends upon voluntary community effort, and salvage is handled through regular waste dealers. The campaign was organized on a national basis last week when waste dealers met the government and pledged cooperation.

Two items of imports together offer $20,000,000 or more savings to the country, if they can be replaced by salvage. Last year Canada imported $17,000,000 in scrap metal and $3,000,000 in rags. In addition substantial imports in waste paper were reported.

Regional difficulties are being ironed out, and a market exists for virtually all salvage, from metals, bones and rags to old paper and glass. Handling salvage is a highly specialized business and experts in the trade have offered to sort collected waste. In the trade there are 25 classes of paper, 18 classes of rags, and so on.

tence was passed, Michael said he felt equally guilty with another man, who, he admitted, took part in the crime. He said that he had never entered the teacherage, but that he had given his pledge to this accomplice not to inform on him.

"He could not break that pledge," he told the court.

In passing the life sentence Mr. Justice Howson said the statement of Mr. Lomnes reveals this as a "most dastardly crime."

Defense counsel Hugh Calais Macdonald, K.C., asked by the court if he had anything to say for the accused, replied that in the carried through the obligations of his profession's oath in seeing that the accused a fair trial and that everything that could be done for him had been done. That oath does not call on me to justify the actions of this accused," Mr. Macdonald stated.

GIVEN ASSISTANCE

He intimated the R.C.M.P. had given him every assistance in conducting the defense, and also that the attorney-general's department, through Crown Prosecutor Hugh McClung, K.C., had the accused examined as to his mental fitness.

Medical evidence submitted to the court indicated that the accused was mentally capable of pleading to the charges.

In a quiet voice, broken occasionally by emotion, Mr. Lomnes told the court of the terrifying experiences of himself and his wife from the time accused entered their lonely home shortly after midnight of November 28.

A party had been held at the teacherage that night, he said. His friends had gone, and his wife and he were washing dishes preparatory to going to bed. His wife left the teacherage and almost immediately she screamed in terror.

FIRED REVOLVER

"I rushed to the door to assist her, and as I reached it it was flung open. My wife pushed in followed by the accused, who had a revolver in his hand. I attempted to grasp the revolver to direct it from myself and my wife. The accused fired the gun, the bullet entering the floor," he stated.

The accused then took wire from his pocket, ordered us to lie on the floor. He tossed part of the wire to me, and ordered my wife to bind me. My wife did so, then bound the other's legs. He still threatened us with the gun. We bound each other as commanded.

Then he ordered my wife to bind my arms and wrists. When this was completed he examined the wire, and bound my wrists tighter with wire.

He then suggested it would be more comfortable for my wife to lie on the bed as she would be bound for a long time and the floor was hard."

HANDS BOUND

When my wife reached the bedroom and was placed on the bed the wire was taken from her legs and her arms and she was ordered to take off her clothes line he had found in the house.

I dragged myself across the floor of the kitchen to the bedroom and saw the accused attempting to criminally assault my wife. I saw me and ordered me back to the centre of the kitchen.

"I heard my wife cry out asking God to have mercy on her. The cry was followed by a blow. The blow did not quieten her screams, and two other blows followed. Then my wife lost consciousness," the witness stated.

ATE AN APPLE

Several minutes later the accused came from the bedroom, took an apple from a bowl on the kitchen table and went out to the house stoop. He started to eat the apple there.

A few minutes later he re-entered the house and again assaulted my wife, who was still unconscious.

Accused, according to the witness, made him search for his purse and wallet, took his gold watch and other valuables, and then demanded to be told where the other money was hidden.

TOOK SHOTGUN

He asked if there was a gun in the house, and later found a 10 gauge shotgun in the barn. He took with him after loading the gun in the kitchen. Mr. McClung estimated that the accused took the police to the place he had cached the gun.

The accused was in the Lomnes home for a period of at least four hours, it was disclosed, and just before leaving said to Mr. Lomnes that "he hated to do this but he was practising good psychology and then said that teachers were good and did not like their reputations hurt and they had better keep quiet about this as it would make a nice juicy story in the courts."

Enemy Territory

NEW DELHI, India, March 7.—(CP)—The government of India issued notification Thursday that Bulgaria is regarded as enemy territory.

BRITISH SAID ARMING TURKS AT FAST RATE

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 7.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports were current in this German-occupied capital today that Britain is rushing all spare equipment to the Turks.

The British command, these reports said, is making every effort to strengthen its Allies against the first shock and is rushing equipment to the Turks who are in a position to launch a flank attack on the German army if it attempts an invasion of Greece.

Greek diplomatic quarters here said they believed the Turks would launch a drive into the Rhodope mountains, a chain extending east and west along the Bulgarian-Greek frontier, if Germany attempts an offensive.

and refrain from joining up with the Axis for the time being at least.

The same circles said Germany and Yugoslavia would make almost identical declarations, with Germany "assuring" Yugoslavia of her "peaceful aims" with regard to this country.

German Minister Viktor Von Heeren's trip to Germany Feb. 24 following a telephone conversation with Foreign Minister Ribbentrop was said to be the first German step to learn definitely to what length Yugoslavia would go to remain out of the war.

DECISION IMPORTANT

What lever decision Yugoslavia makes, observers said, it would have an important bearing on the ultimate fate of Greece and perhaps determine Turkey's attitude in the Balkan crisis.

Most quarters felt the chances were small that Yugoslavia would lend German efforts to swing her to the Axis and thereby open her frontiers to a Nazi drive aimed at Greece.

Except for her common frontier with Greece—a distaste of about 100 miles—Yugoslavia is completely hemmed in by the Axis and is in a poor strategic position to oppose Germany, even with the promise of British aid.

A formal statement issued last night by Premier Cvetkovic and Vice Premier Macek, after Regent Prince Paul had conferred for five hours with members of his cabinet and army chieftains, indicated the government recognized the seriousness of the situation but threw little light on its attitude.

"In connection with alarming reports regarding the political situation which are being tendentiously spread by various parties," the statement said, "M. Cvetkovic and M. Macek declared today that all events are being attentively followed and that up to competent factors and that all decisions regarding these events—the independence and unity of the state—are being constantly kept in view."

TO TELL OF VISIT

Prince Paul returned to Belgrade early Thursday and summoned all the principal leaders in a conference which lasted throughout the day.

It was learned the government's expected neutrality statement would be accompanied by an explanation of the regent's visit to Hitler.

Informed quarters said the Yugoslav ministers in London and Moscow also will explain their government's attitude to the British and Russian governments in the light of the new situation resulting from Bulgaria's occupation by Nazi troops.

No one seemed to know for sure just when Yugoslavia is heading. Diplomatic quarters however said one thing is certain—the nation wishes to remain out of the war, but, at the same time, regards German pressure as more powerful than all efforts to keep the country neutral.

Jews In Krakow To Be Segregated By German Order

KRAKOW, Poland, (Via Berlin), March 7. — (AP)—Otto Waechter, Nazi governor of the Krakow district of occupied Poland, today ordered segregation of Krakow Jews and creation of a Jewish section in the city completed by March 20. No plan has been adopted for walls to shut off the Jews, as in Warsaw, but they must live apart from others in a restricted area of about 25 square blocks.

BAN ON CONVOY BY U.S. SHIPS IS REJECTED

Senate Refuses To Accept Amendment Forbidding Escorts

WASHINGTON, March — (AP)—The Senate today rejected an amendment to the British aid bill which would forbid the convoying by United States armed forces of war materials shipped from the western hemisphere.

The vote came on a proposal by Senator Joseph O'Mahoney (Dem., Wyoming), offered as a substitute to and administration-sponsored amendment by Senator Allen Ellender (Dem., Louisiana). The Ellender amendment states that nothing in the measure should be construed as changing existing laws governing the land and naval forces.

BLUNT PROHIBITION

While O'Mahoney had contended that his proposal as originally drawn would rule out convoys, he rewrote it slightly at the suggestion of Senator Homer Bone (Dem., Washington) so that Bone finally described it as "a blunt prohibition against convoys."

The vote on the O'Mahoney amendment came after opponents of the bill suddenly had shifted their strategy, and Senator Bennett Clark (Dem., Missouri) had withdrawn temporarily a proposal to prohibit the use of any future appropriations to send United States armed forces outside the western hemisphere and American possessions unless Congress declared war. The roll call vote was 62 to 28.

Before the vote, both opponents and supporters of the measure had turned against O'Mahoney's amendment.

Senator Clark told reporters he and others of the opposition intended to vote against the O'Mahoney amendment because, he said, it would permit the convoying by the navy of war shipments "up to within two miles of combat areas."

Senator Tom Connally (Dem., Texas) predicted that most supporters of the measure would oppose the O'Mahoney amendment, and favor instead the one by Senator Ellender.

NORSE PEOPLE PUNISHED FOR AIDING BRITISH

Property Of Those Who Left Lofoten Island To Be Burned

SVOLVAR, Norway, (Via Berlin), March 7. — (AP)—Reichscommissioner Joseph Terboven has decreed all property belonging to the families of Norwegians who voluntarily followed British forces or aided them during the surprise raid on the Lofoten Islands Tuesday should be burned.

The decree was issued following Terboven's arrival here Tuesday night after the raid. Those remaining who helped the British while they were ashore were arrested. One Norwegian was shot the same night for recalcitrance.

The population of Oestvaagoy Island, on which Svolvar is situated, was fined 100,000 kroner and the municipality was required to maintain the families of those who were taken to Britain as prisoners.

(The krone is not quoted currently but before the Nazi occupation of Norway its normal value was about 25 cents.

British authorities reported their naval units and other Norwegian forces raided the islands Tuesday morning, destroying 11 German and Norwegian vessels and quantities of Nazi oil stocks and war materials. Ten "Quislings" were reported taken along with 215 prisoners and "a considerable number of patriots" were said to have returned with the raiders to England.)

He gave the following table to show the distribution of the population by age groups:

The minister said the Dominion Bureau of Statistics had not yet made a complete tabulation of the population of the other provinces but would have similar figures for them shortly.

Legislature Passes War Savings Resolution On Division By 35-18 Vote

position. What is the use of talking co-operation if we are to receive none."

The Premier said he could imagine that even Hitler could talk co-operation. One could imagine him saying to Premier Winston Churchill, "give up the idea of democracy; join the league of European states; give up your sovereignty and the navy, give up the Bank of England and use one king of money and recognize German supremacy as a race." But this did not mean that he would co-operate.

The Premier charged D. M. Duggan, Ind., Edmonton and Alfred Speakman, Ind., Red Deer, with failure to co-operate. He said he had "nothing against Mr. Duggan" whose legislative viewpoint was getting to the reactionary stage and who had never voted for the government on any important matter. Turning his attention to Mr. Bowlen he said that it must be difficult for a good Liberal to give up his principles. He would have liked Mr. Bowlen to ask himself surrounded by Conservatives, as he sat in his place in the house.

CLEAR ATMOSPHERE

Criticizing Mr. Duggan's opposition to the government, he said that from his conversations with him and from his speeches in the house, he was moved to think, "What a terrible sabotage of ability."

He charged that the "complacency and laissez faire" attitude of the opposition was similar to "that which has put Britain where she is today."

"What's wrong with Britain?" asked Mr. Duggan.

"Nothing, now," replied the Premier. In explanation he said his reference was to Britain's unpreparedness for this war.

It was contended by the Premier that he was not "talking to cause further antagonism" but merely sought" to clear up the atmosphere in this house."

Protest was launched by Mr. Duggan when the Premier directed attention to statements made during the debate on the Speech from the Throne by J. Percy Page, Ind., Edmonton. Mr. Duggan charged the Premier was introducing new material into the motion and the Premier replied that he was trying to get co-operation. George MacLachlan, Ind., Pembina, protested that the premier was "strictly out of order." On the other hand, Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of municipal affairs, said he was with in his rights. Mr. Page then declared he was willing to hear what the Premier had to say.

"WIPED OFF SLATE"

The Premier then declared that when he had moved his resolution, he expressed the hope that nothing of a controversial nature would develop.

"Mr. Duggan has said to me: 'why don't you control your members and why don't you be boss?' I don't believe in centralized power and the men on this side are not 'yes men' to anybody."

At this point, Mr. Duggan asked, "What about signing the blue pledges?" The blue pledges of unity were signed by Social Credit members in 1937.

The Premier laughed at Mr. Duggan's interjection and said that "The point is recognized that men on this side of the house can conduct themselves in a proper way."

Dealing with a reference by Mayor Andrew Davison, Ind., Calgary, regarding the Social Credit members' differences of opinion in 1937, the Premier declared "That was wiped off the slate long ago. Just now I can't think of the name for a man who goals around digging up dead bodies."

ASKS INFORMATION

Mayor Davison here asked "Is the premier suggesting that the insurgents are dead bodies?"

To this the premier replied "That is a very bright remark." And continued by saying that as a married man, Mr. Davison should know that there were disputes in every well regulated family.

"Keep to the resolution," interjected Mr. Duggan.

Continuing, the premier said, "I have nothing against Mayor Davison. But when he talked about 'insurgency' he was talking about my business, my personal business and nothing to do with this house. It was poor business of him to bring it up." He then proceeded to discuss negotiations with Independents concerning the resolution under discussion.

"Who is the leader of the Independents," he asked. He directed attention of the house to the fact that negotiations had been opened by Mr. Duggan and said he had felt like calling up the Independent leader to find out who was the party leader. Declaring he had no objection to Mr. Duggan coming to see him at any time, he said he really would like to know who was the leader of the party."

FOUR POINTS

Mr. Walker, rising, said, "I am the leader."

"Then," said the premier, "why did you not bring the resolution to me?"

"He has a proxy," came cries from Social Credit back-benchies.

Mr. Walker: "I delegate the work to any member of our group, as I have the right to do."

The premier: "Well, if you want to do business that way, all right."

He then said that there were four points in connection with the negotiations which had not been mentioned by Mr. Duggan in the assembly.

One was that in the original Independents' draft resolution, the words "as an integral part of our war effort" were included. Further, he said that he could not sign a resolution which said that the sale of war savings stamps was the most important part of the war effort.

Mr. Duggan declared that "You took no exception to the words" during the negotiations. Mr. Maynard declared "Yes we did, right there" and pointed to the middle section of the front row of government benches.

STAUNCHLY BRITISH

The Premier said that "The house should know the whole story. Mr. Duggan's story of the negotiations was not complete" and he declared that the Independents' letter had said that if agreement could not be reached, then the whole idea of passing a resolution should be dropped.

John J. Bowlen, Ind., Calgary here said, "Suspicious, eh?"

The Premier then continued by stating that "If we had agreed to drop it, then they would have gone out and said we were disloyal. The only thing for us to do was to go ahead with the resolution. There were some who were only too willing to find fault with him, charging him with disloyalty," he said.

"I was born a British subject and have lived in Canada all my life," he said. "There is nothing I am more proud of than the British Empire and British institutions. I have made a special study of the British ensign and I have no religious belief that the British are the remainder of the headquarters of God's chosen people and will never be defeated. I am not the slightest bit disloyal." Continuing, he said when Independents, through Mr. Duggan indicated they could not support the resolution as redrafted, he went to Angus J. Morrison, Labor, Edson, who sits on the opposition side.

MONETARY REFORM

"I asked him what he thought about the resolution. He read it over and said he didn't see anything wrong with it." Also the Premier, H. J. Macdonald, K.C., Ind., Edmonton, asked if Mr. Morrison had been informed of previous negotiations. The Premier replied that "I told him that I had approached the Independents and that they had refused to sign and all that."

He said the monetary reform clause in the resolution could not be yielded. He appealed to Independents to support the resolution and was confident 95 per cent of those on the opposition benches were monetary reformists. Urging unity on the matter he said that "in time of war we should get together."

Referring to Mr. Walker he said that he did not believe his spirit was such that would allow political bias to influence him. He was leading men and "as he goes, they will go."

A. E. Fee, S.C. Sedgewick declared his belief that war subscriptions were primarily planned to restrict spending as propounded in some quarters. They were not conducive to the best war effort, he said. Particularly was this so in the west, where circulating money already was scarce.

CURRENCY CONTROL

He read a quotation from Premier Mackenzie King stating that "once a nation has lost control" of the issue of its currency, "it matters not who makes its laws." He believed Premier King was sincere in his statement but "powers beyond his control had prevented him" adhering to it. He charged currency control was in the hands of private corporations.

N. B. James, S.C. Edmonton, found it regrettable that "any discussion or innuendo should cause us to doubt loyalty of any member of this house."

He disputed suggestions that Alberta people were insufficiently "war conscious." They were taking a more sober view of it than they did in 1914.

He forecast that the Dominion government eventually would have to exercise powers beyond that of financing the war and this justified the final part of the resolution.

Egg Production

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)—Canada's egg production is so great at the present time that a large shipment of eggs exported to the United Kingdom early in February had "little effect on the price in Canada," officials of the agriculture department said Thursday night. The February shipment of 62 cars may be followed by larger shipments, officials said.

Bulgaria's minister to Great Britain, Nicolas Montchiloff, resigned his post in protest against his country's capitulation to Hitler, making Bulgaria an Axis member, and it was intimated a "free Bulgarian" regime might be established in London.

U. S. AUXILIARY SHIPS MAY BE GIVEN BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—Rear Admiral Royal E. Ingersoll, assistant chief of United States naval operations, told congress today part of a requested 200,000 tons of naval auxiliaries, such as tankers, might figure in the British aid program.

Ingersoll made his statement to the house naval committee in response to questions by Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem., Georgia), but emphasized no specific allocation of the proposed auxiliaries had been made.

"If by any possible chance we were directed to turn over all our tankers to some foreign nation," he said, at one point, "we would have to get more tankers from the Maritime commission."

Adding that he mentioned this contingency only as a possibility, Ingersoll emphasized that the navy had neither funds nor authority to replace such auxiliaries or to acquire any new ones now.

Calgary Member Royal Air Force Awarded D.F.M.

CALGARY, March 7.—(CP)—Son of a fighting Irishman, Sergeant-Pilot Samuel Alexander Patterson, R.A.F., who will be 25 on St. Patrick's Day, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal, according to a cable received by his parents, Sergeant and Mrs. S. Patterson, Viking.

The young flyer was wounded in the shoulders during the first raid over the Kiel canal, but recovered, to go on to new exploits. It is believed the award followed action in a "Spitfire" over Swansea, Wales. The young pilot's father, Sergt. Patterson, had a distinguished record in the last war, when he was overseas with the Royal Inskilling Fusiliers in 1914 (Old Contemptibles). He was wounded three times and mentioned in dispatches.

He couldn't keep out of this war and is now an instructor at Currie barracks, with the Edmonton Regiment.

Cargo Ships To Be Constructed In Coast Yards

VANCOUVER, March 7.—(CP)—Vancouver shipbuilders declared themselves ready Thursday to take part in a new program of steel cargo ship construction forecast by D. B. Carswell, controller of ship construction in the Department of Munitions and Supply, under which at least 18 medium-sized freighters will be built.

Mr. Carswell said the program is in addition to one already begun in Vancouver shipyards under which eight 9,300-ton ships will be built. He arrived from Ottawa Wednesday to look over British Columbia shipyards. The new ships, he predicted, will be under 3,000 tons and added that he believed Vancouver yards would share in the contracts.

WAR INDUSTRY GIVES IMPETUS TO EMPLOYMENT

OTTAWA, March 7—(CP)—Increase of employment in Canada's major war industries during January boosted the seasonally-adjusted index compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to the highest level on record, the bureau reported Thursday in its monthly survey of employment.

Substantial gains in manufacturing raised the index to 140.5 Feb. 1 compared with 139.4 Jan. 1.

Returns from 12,467 employers showed shifts totalling 3,238,022 men and women. This compared with 1,316,869 Jan. 1—a gain of 8,273.

Employment gains were sprinkled liberally across Canada, with only Quebec and the three prairie provinces failing to participate in the advance. Most pronounced progress was shown in the maritime provinces.

Calgary's Mayor Also Held Post Army Paymaster

OTTAWA, March 7—(CP)—Being mayor of Calgary and a member of the Alberta legislature are only two of the offices filled by Andrew Davison, the Commons learned Thursday.

At request of C. E. Johnston (N.D., Bow River), the defence department tabled a return showing that the Army Davison also was paymaster of the 2nd Battalion, Calgary Highlanders (Reserve) was indeed the Mayor-M.L.A.

The department said the appointment permitted of other civilian activities. Payment at the rate of $5.20 a day was made when the officer-mayor-M.L.A. was undergoing training with his unit.

Definite Route Not Decided For Alaskan Highway

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)—E. G. Hansell and Macleod, learned officially Thursday in the House of Commons that the route of the proposed United States Alaska highway has not yet been decided.

In answer to a query as to whether the route had been decided he received the government's answer, "no." This negative, said the return, answered also Mr. Russell's query as to through what provinces the highway would mainly run.

Re-Elected

LETHBRIDGE, March 7.—(CP)—Charles MacMillan was re-elected president of the Lethbridge board of trade at the annual meeting Wednesday night. Representatives of the board of trade from Calgary had numerous South Alberta towns attended the meeting.

Large Shipments Of U.S. Aircraft During January

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(AP)—Large shipments of airplanes to British possessions in the Near East and Africa were reported Thursday by the United States commerce department. The British Empire received 93 per cent of all aeronautic equipment exported during January.

Analyzing the record $40,842,241 aeronautic exports during that month, the department found shipments of $6,397,497 to the Gold Coast and $2,378,382 to South Africa, while $2,706,844 worth of craft went to British Malaya.

The largest group of airplanes, worth $19,340,590, went to the United Kingdom. Canada received shipments of $7,190,715 worth of planes and parts.

Altogether 459 land planes and eight seaplanes were shipped.

Large Sum For Building Airport At Prince George

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., March 7—(CP)—The Dominion government plans to spend between $350,000 and $400,000 on a new airport at this central interior town, it was reported here Thursday, and preliminary surveys already have been completed.

Construction of the new field, presumably one of several the government is building across northern British Columbia, is expected to begin within the next few weeks.

Falls To Death

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 7—(AP)—The United States army lost its first parachute trooper Thursday when Sgt. Floyd S. Beard, 38, 501st Parachute Battalion, fell to his death when his 'chute failed to open as he leaped from 750 feet.

Those Rumanian Ports

Premier Antonescu scooting to Vienna to tell Marshal Goering that Russia had demanded some more Rumanian territory adds a touch of grim comedy to the Balkan tragedy. Goering, as likely as not, knew Moscow's plans before they were disclosed to the frightened Antonescu. At least he had every reason to suppose Stalin would not over-look the opportunity to grab that is opened up to him by the southward movement of Nazi troops and the involvement of Germany in war with Greece and perhaps Turkey. Josef hasn't missed any former chance to help plunder Hitler's victims. Why should he start now?

It may be of course that Russia has other aims than mere possession of the coveted Black Sea ports. These lie closer than Russian ports to Russia's only outlet to the Mediterranean. They are also closer to the submarine and air bases which the Nazis have established on the Rumanian coast. They would be useful in the event of Russia backing Turkey to fight a Nazi attempt to seize the Dardanelles. Whether Herr Goering knew beforehand that Stalin wanted the ports, he will not be unmindful of the possibility that he may want them for war use, not just to keep-out Russia. Such a possibility, the Marshal can hardly help wondering whether his Corporal Fuehrer isn't staking too much for Benito's sake.

Ankara Wasn't Fooled

The Turk-Bulgar pact did not last long. It ended in fact, whether or not formally, when Nazi troops swarmed over Bulgaria and massed on the border of Turkey. It means exactly nothing in the situation thus created.

That seems strange to dwellers in this continent, since when Canada and the United States make a treaty they keep it. Not necessarily so in Europe, nor even usually so, particularly in the Balkans. Pacts there are made in the light of a general understanding that they may not be worth anything the day after tomorrow. When there are not escape clauses in them, there is always the recognized fact that circumstances can alter cases and frequently, do. And when armies are mobilized along a border, the generals do not sit down together to see whether the latest treaty will let them fight.

On this side of the ocean, keeping a treaty seems to be a matter of plain honesty. On the continent of Europe, a different conception prevails, born of long experience with diplomatic traps and calculated treachery. Treaties are commonly made there to get an advantage over some neighbor else. Since this is understood, there is no outburst of amazement when one is broken.

For whatever reason Premier Phiioff got the Turks to sign the pact last week, the Turks were under no illusion that it meant Bulgaria would not join Germany in making war against them. They just massed a half million men along the border, as they would have done if there hadn't been any pact. That shows what they thought it was worth.

A Change Of Manner

Tokyo announces that the Indo China-Thailand armistice has been "indefinitely prolonged"; a polite way of saying Petain has won the tilt with Matsuoka by ignoring three dead-lines, and the discussion of terms will go on. At London Japanese ambassador asked for an interview and told Prime Minister Churchill that Japan has no intention of precipitating war with Britain. At Sydney the Japanese consul suggested a treaty of respect and friendship between Japan and Australia.

Not forgetting that a Japanese army was landed on the south China coast three days ago and that Japanese naval, military and air forces are massed in and around the Island of Hainan, these indications are a less fevered condition in Tokyo and a possible easing of the tension in the south Pacific.

Reasons why cooler thoughts should prevail in that quarter are not wanting, nor obscure. It has been demonstrated that neither French rights, Dutch rights nor British rights in Malaysia are to be surrendered on demand, nor swept away without the employment of more force than it would be safe for Japan to send so far from home. And it cannot have escaped the observant Matsuoka that Herr Hitler is daily involving himself in still farther-flung possibilities of disaster in Europe, disaster which would leave his Far Eastern ally out on a limb.

Japan's leaders will not expect Vichy, the Netherlands, Britain, nor the United States, to overlook the possibility that their milder tone is assumed for purposes of deception. But neither will these powers forget that the milder tone was only adopted when Tokyo became convinced that expansion southward by force would mean war on an indefinitely large scale.

Take The Men To The Jobs

Unlike the governments of several of the other provinces, Alberta included, the Government of Manitoba says it cannot assume the federal share of relief costs, and that unless the municipalities do so an appeal will have to be made to Ottawa for help. Premier Patterson says Saskatchewan also may have to ask for special consideration from the Dominion, unless the municipalities can pay more.

Premier Bracken throws light on the subject when he says Manitoba has not shared greatly in the expenditure of war money and the employment of men in war industries. Saskatchewan no doubt suffers in the same respect. This may account in large measure for the less favorable employment conditions suggested in these protests against the withdrawal of federal contributions to relief.

It may easily be that the unemployment "problem" in both provinces will prove to be less serious as the year advances and men are drawn away to areas in which war work exceeds the labor supply, as it is bound to do. In any case it would be better to spend federal "relief" money on transporting unemployed men to places where they can get work than to support them in idleness where they happen to reside.

The committee which has been set up to study the "decentralization" of war industries should include in its study this question of taking labor to jobs, as well as that of taking jobs to labor. In Britain, in Germany, in France, it has long been a part of government policy to transfer unemployed men to centres or districts in which there was need of their services. Canada will have to work out a similar system if the productive industry of the nation is to be used to the best advantage.

Mr. Winant, the new United States ambassador to Britain, says he is confident United States aid will not "come too late." He evidently thinks some Senators at Washington will run out of wind before Britain runs out of munitions.

There is peculiar satisfaction in reading that five Fascist planes which made a second bomb-attack on earthquake stricken Larissa were shot down. Most readers will find it impossible to hope that the crews escaped death, for they were not engaged in fair and honorable fighting but in a particularly fiendish type of revenge-killing.

Altogether 870 persons have been interned in Canada since the beginning of the war. A considerable number have been released after having their cases investigated. Out of a population upwards of 12,000,000, including many thousands who came, or whose forefathers came, from countries with which we are now at war, it is notable that the number whom it was thought advisable to intern is not larger. With remarkably few exceptions, Canadian residents of German and Italian lineage have kept clear of the defence law and avoided creating active suspicion of their loyalty.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1891—50 Years Ago

Returns from the general Dominion elections held on Thursday are incomplete, but the result appears to be government 111, opposition 96. Ministers 2, including Sir Carling and Colby, cabinet ministers, were defeated. The election in the Northwest Territories resulted: Alberta, Davis; Saskatchewan, Macdowall; Assiniboia west, Davin; Assiniboia east, Dennis; Manitoba elected three government supporters, Ross, Macdonald and Daly, against Watson, Liberal. British Columbia elected four government supporters, Bernard, Prior, Earle and Campbell.

George Hudson, an old resident of St. Albert, died on Friday.

1901—40 Years Ago

Manitoba courts have decided that the Hugh John Macdonald prohibition law is ultra vires.

The meetings of the board of trade, while unsuccessful in getting the "smallpox" quarantine lifted, succeeded in stirring up unlimited discussion and great quantities of adverse opinions. Though called with the best of intentions, they resulted in little or nothing but an angry and controversial airing of personal grievances through the public press; which, while doubtless interesting, are irrelevant to the question at issue. In the threshing around for some one on whom to place the blame the North West government seems to be the favorite. It is generally conceded that they sent the epidemic here, and that Peterson brought the desquamation germs in his little leather satchel.

Coal mines in southern Alberta are closed as the result of a strike to enforce the "closed shop" rule.

Innisfree is holding its first municipal election next week.

Spokane: Two men now under arrest here are charged with murder and accused of a plot to kill President Taft.

San Francisco: A report has reached here that Sir Hector Macdonald, who was supposed to have committed suicide in Paris in 1903, is drilling troops of the Chinese army.

1921—20 Years Ago

London: A counter-revolution has broken out among the sailors of the Russian navy and the battleship Petropavlosk is reported to have turned its guns on Petrograd.

The board of trade will occupy their new quarters in the McLeod building on Monday.

Washington: Champ Clark is dead.

1931—10 Years Ago

Edmonton's fire brigade answered 846 calls last year. One life was lost because of fires, and property damage in the city amounted to $206,962.

Ottawa: The international joint commission has decided Canada must pay $350,000 as compensation for damage done to crops in the United States by fumes from the Trail smelter.

Regina: The General Motors plant in this city will be reopened.

From The News

By Harold L. Weir

The note delivered to Bulgaria the other day by Soviet Russia intimating that Stalin and his colleagues were not pleased with Bulgaria's submission to Germany has been the subject of much speculation in Britain.

At first, the tendency was to believe that the Soviets were disposed to openly challenge German aggression in the Balkans. This does not seem to be borne out by the facts or by subsequent events.

In the first place, the note was addressed, not to Germany, but to Bulgaria. This would indicate that Stalin intended it to be more of a rebuke to Bulgaria than a protest to Hitler.

The fact that no action has been taken by Russia to follow up this partial revelation of policy would seem to show that Stalin's message was primarily a warning to Bulgaria not to proceed. In all likelihood, the Soviets are just as much of an enigma to the Nazis as to the British.

Thus, the report that Russia had demanded seaports from Rumania, which has been denied, was very probably a bit of German kite-flying to goad Stalin into some positive expression of opinion.

The situation seems to be this:

Stalin is intensely interested in Hitler's movements in the Balkans. He is resentful of Hitler's intrusion into an area which he regards as his sphere of influence. He would be particularly resentful of any attempt to interfere with Turkey which for years has virtually been his keeper of the Black Sea gate.

But Stalin is still afraid of a hostile move by Hitler in his direction.

It is a good guess that the Soviets will take action against the Nazis when Nazi troops cross into Turkey. Very probably a serious Axis defeat in the Near East will bring Stalin's troops down into Rumania for another land grab.

But the time is not yet.

The United States government has ordered Italy to close her consulates in Detroit and Newark. Recently, the Italian government closed two American consulates in Naples and Palermo.

The American action is not retaliatory. It does not mean that the United States contemplates an immediate interruption of diplomatic relations with Mussolini.

But it does mean that the Roosevelt administration is keeping a sharp eye on fifth column activities throughout the country. And it does not propose to spare the feelings of any foreign nation in curbing their subversive work.

It has recently been shown that at the time of the collapse of France there were no fewer than 200,000 Fascist agents and spies in that country. That they played a part in undermining the French morale and defense cannot be known yet. But their influence was doubtless tremendous.

Hitherto the United States has been the happy hunting ground for subversive groups of all descriptions.

The closing of these consulates serves notice on these gentry that Uncle Sam is awake and will stand no more nonsense.

There is a rumor from Tokyo that Prince Fumimaro Konoye, prime minister of Japan when war broke out between Japan and China, may be gently ousted from his high office by those of his colleagues who are annoyed by his long absence from his duties.

Prince Konoye, it seems, has not functioned since February 9 when he took to his bed with a cold.

Now a single period of sickness does not disqualify anybody for office in Japan. But Prince Konoye evidently cherishes his physical health so jealously as to have become something of a laughing-stock throughout the country.

The Prince, it is said, has such a mortal fear of disease and infection that he never goes to a public meeting or gathering without a surgical gauze mask. He hesitates to shake hands with anybody, from the Emperor down.

He spends the greater part of every day in bed carefully guarding himself from overexertion. And he uses such a bewildering number of germicidal douches, mouth washes, disinfectants and antiseptic hand lotions that the saying has arisen that if the Chinese were germs, Konoye would be master of all China.

Quite naturally, the Japanese, who are a highly sensitive people, feel keenly the ridicule which is directed towards their prime minister. They believe they have bigger game to hunt than divers bacilli.

Nevertheless it have wondered if Prince Konoye hasn't got the right of it after all. A nation that depends entirely on foreign trade might be better off relaxing than ranting. A people who are the prey of pulmonary diseases to the extent of the Japanese might be better employed gargling than gallivanting.

There seems to be little doubt today that Yugoslavia will be forced to sign a pact with the Axis Powers.

Indications are that she will do so most reluctantly. Britain appears to have given her assurances that she will have British help if she decides to resist Nazi encroachments. This promise is doubtless at the bottom of her last minute efforts to postpone a show-down.

But the fact that she has been trying to promote a Greek-Axis armistice indicates that Nazi pressure on her is very strong.

Yugoslavia is apparently trying to retain British friendship. But, after all, she has to be realistic. And, with all the good will in the world, Britain could do little to prevent a Nazi invasion which inevitably would be driven out but which, in the meantime, could devastate the country.

Hitler is making another bitter enemy for himself—an enemy, which like Hitler's other conquests, will some day be able to strike a belated blow in revenge.

Side Glances

"Tell me the rest of that joke later, Lem—I gotta give this first show crowd real night club service."

The Passing Show

By J. S. Cowper

With the exception of a paragraph or two about ex-honorary colonel Lindbergh, I've never bothered in print with the pro-Nazis in United States. Even when Senators Nye and Wheeler introduced a resolution in the U. S. Senate asking the President to find out if Britain had any "secret plans" to use the war for "territorial spoils," I refrained from writing the gents to ask if there was any truth in the rumors that German troops are occupying Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Norway, Denmark, Belgium, France, Holland and Rumania.

However, now that Senator Wheeler in his efforts to delimit U. S. aid to Britain brings in the name of Canada—and thereby reveals his colossal ignorance of his near neighbor on this continent—a plaintive word of protest seems justified.

"Colony of Canada"

Said the pro-Nazi Senator, "Canada, which is a colony of Great Britain, is not in a position to say nothing of giving war supplies to Britain." After referring to Australia and New Zealand as other colonies of Great Britain, the Senator told his Montana auditors that Canada "is insisting that the cash be paid to her country before any munitions leave for Britain."

The tap-room illustration classifies the Senator for Montana, and perhaps relieves him in part from the plight of not knowing that the country which borders on his own state has for over 70 years been a self-governing Dominion. For as long as ever he has been a Senator, Canada has been a free and independent nation, linked with other free and independent nations of British origin in the British Commonwealth of Nations. That piece of superficial ignorance on the part of the Senator from Montana justifies the feeling I had that his pro-Nazi pronouncements do not justify comment.

Canada Gives

The other piece of misinformation, betraying either woeful ignorance or wilful deceit—that Canada exacts payment for her aid to the Mother Country—has happily been answered in advance by one of the leading newspapers of United States, the New York Times.

Before the Senator made his ill-speech in Montana, while the same accusation was being bandied round the senate committee room by pro-Nazi agents, the New York Times in an editorial titled "Canada Gives," said in part:

"It is a fact that Canada neither leases nor lends to the mother country in this war. She gives freely, with both hands, to the limit of her capacity. Of her own free will she has made the war her own and she is devoting to its prosecution 46 per cent of her entire national income.

"She gives fighting men and provides their equipment. When Great Britain supplies any part of such equipment, Canada pays for it. She gives ships and mans them, buys planes from us and uses them to train fliers for the British service. There is, moreover, no thought in Canada of expecting payment after the war is over. Canada's war gifts are free gifts. In Ottawa there is no demand for an official statement regarding Canada's position; but it is felt that none can be made without seeming to interfere in the discussions here over passage of the bill. No statement is necessary. The American people understand and respect the war effort of their good neighbor."

However, the Senator didn't allow the assurance of the New York Times to stand between himself and his duty to the pro-Nazi cause when he went to address his Montana supporters.

They Got The Idea

At the Pierson high school on Long Island last week, 450 pupils had an object lesson in civics. For the day they operated under a Nazi dictatorship. Supposing themselves to be living in a mythical land of Metamia—Me Tame You—they established from each class room appointed as secret police. Members of the school band in their red and black uniforms acted as Storm Troopers. All civil rights were suspended. Free speech, free assembly and religious study were verboten. Girls were forbidden to use lipstick, rouge and nail polish.

The school's faculty of 25 men and women were given the right to force their way into the student's home at lunch time and name the enemy. Every household was given printed excerpts of Metamia dogma—all historical untruths. Pupils were compelled to give categorical answers to questions in history, or undergo punishment.

Principal Principal Schreiber was the dictator. Among the first arrests was the dictator's blonde daughter Nancy. She had been seen speaking to someone by her younger brother, who was one of the Gestapo.

Verna Schultz and Julia Hansen dragged before the dictator and charged with having their hair in curls contrary to the edicts of Metamia were yanked outside and the curls straightened with the aid of a comb and some cold water. For talking back to the Storm Troopers Miss Schultz finished the day in the school concentration camps.

There was no blood purge but the judge was arrested by order of the dictator and punished for "conspiracy." Nobody knew who he had conspired with, and he wasn't allowed to defend himself from the charge.

After a madcap school day, the arm-bands were taken from the Storm Troopers and the pupils were restored to normalcy. "Dictator Day" ended with a talk on the Bill of Rights. The object lesson had sunk in.

CBC Please Note

Editor, Bulletin: Some time ago I saw a few letters published in the Bulletin from residents of families who have boys in Iceland who were eager to do their bit to help win this war.

I quite agree with these people that it would be nice if these boys could have the privilege of sending greetings to their folks back home, like our Canadian boys in England.

I know all is being done for them, but as these people said, something should be done, as they are in a strange country. So I do hope that in the future we will hear of a program from there, as we all feel proud of our Canadian soldiers stationed in Iceland, serving their country.

SOLDIER MOTHER.

Some Dogs "Spiteful"

Editor, Bulletin: In your paper "Animal Lover" asks, "Who are the savages?"

Having for many years been the surgeon of a large animal hospital, handling over a hundred strange dogs and cats every day, I feel qualified, and hope you will appreciate, my reply.

I never yet met a man who assured me that he did not like dogs, and my experience both as a physician and a veterinarian has proven that clients will pay as freely to have their dogs treated as their children.

Those who have had qualms about the powers which H. R. 1776 vests in the President should now ask themselves whether there are any power more deadly to the survival of democracy than the power to paralyze the government and prevent it from reaching a decision in a time of grave crisis. It was this very evil—the evil of impotence—that aroused the patriots in 1787 and caused them to send delegates to Philadelphia to establish a government which would be capable of national action. They had realized, as Washington put it, that "it is impossible that the general concerns of this country can be directed by thirteen heads, or one head without competent powers, is a solemn truth had effects of which every man who has had the practical knowledge to judge from, that I have in fairly convinced my mind of."

What was true in 1787 is manifestly true today. An inadequate government and nothing could be more inadequate than a government prevented from making decisions, is a fearful danger to the national safety and to the social order. For a free people, deciding deliberately but deciding firmly and acting resolutely, must make mistakes. But they will survive their mistakes and triumph over their errors because they have the means to act and to correct their errors. But if a government is paralyzed, is unable to reach any decision, right or wrong, is entangled with itself so that public policy is brought to a standstill, then the nation is in grave danger of becoming demoralized, disunited, and therefore altogether defenseless. That is the fear of either side which called the Constitutional Convention into being; it was to preserve the nation from this very peril of an impotent government that the Constitution was adopted. We now face in one of the most critical periods of history the same peril of a government reduced to impotence.

The issue presented here transcends any other issue, real or alleged, which is now before the American people. H. R. 1776 is an important measure. But the questions it raises are small in comparison with the question of whether the government of the United States is to be capable of reaching decisions on the grave issues which confront us. No one will ask, and not one has lifted a finger, to prevent the Senate from deliberating on policy and on methods, on authorizations and on appropriations. No one has suggested that the opponents of the bill should be denied the opportunity to argue their views thoroughly. No one has suggested that every effort should not be made to clarify the bill, to make it as acceptable as possible not merely to the numerical majority but to the minority as well. But since the end of last week, the question has not been the merits of H. R. 1776 but whether the Senate is to be allowed to vote—now that the arguments have been made, and repeated, and revised over and over and over again.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Frustration of Government

Shortly after the delegates in Philadelphia had completed the writing of the Constitution, John Adams wrote to Rufus King that the convention had been "if not the greatest exertion of human understanding, the greatest single effort of national deliberation that the world has ever seen." Between May 29, 1787, when their procedure and rules had been agreed upon, and Sept. 15, 1787, their last working day the fifty-five delegates with George Washington in the chair, wrote the Constitution of the United States. Thus they deliberated for three-and-a-half months in order to produce the fundamental law under which this nation has lived for a century and a half.

* * *

We have here, then, a measure of how long a time is required for genuine deliberation when an assembly is dealing not merely with a single bill but with the creation of a new framework of government and the allocation of powers. The deliberations of Congress on H. R. 1776, the lend-lease bill, began on Jan. 15, 1941, and on Wednesday of this week they will have been going on for one week short of two months and some members of the opposition are now no longer denying that they will, if they can, talk for the purpose of preventing the majority of the Senate from making a decision.

Thus they have passed the point where the minority are exercising their right to be heard and to argue their case fully. They have reached the point where they are now seeking to prevent the Senate from exercising its right to pass on their arguments and to decide the issue. What should be a responsible deliberation, that is to say "careful consideration with a view to decision," is likely now to become a test of physical and nervous endurance as whether the majority can wear down on its feet longer and do without sleep longer than can the majority. And this effort to paralyze the Senate is being arranged, we are told, in order to preserve democracy against the rise of dictatorship!

Those who have had qualms about the powers which H. R. 1776 vests in the President should now ask themselves whether there can be any power more deadly to the survival of democracy than the power to paralyze the government and prevent it from reaching a decision in a time of grave crisis. It was this very evil—the evil of impotence—that aroused the patriots in 1787 and caused them to send delegates to Philadelphia to establish a government which would be capable of national action. They had realized, as Washington put it, that "it is impossible that the general concerns of this country can be directed by thirteen heads, or one head without competent powers, is a solemn truth had effects of which every man who has had the practical knowledge to judge from, that I have in fairly convinced my mind of."

What was true in 1787 is manifestly true today. An inadequate government and nothing could be more inadequate than a government prevented from making decisions, is a fearful danger to the national safety and to the social order. For a free people, deciding deliberately but deciding firmly and acting resolutely, must make mistakes. But they will survive their mistakes and triumph over their errors because they have the means to act and to correct their errors. But if a government is paralyzed, is unable to reach any decision, right or wrong, is entangled with itself so that public policy is brought to a standstill, then the nation is in grave danger of becoming demoralized, disunited, and therefore altogether defenseless. That is the fear of either side which called the Constitutional Convention into being; it was to preserve the nation from this very peril of an impotent government that the Constitution was adopted. We now face in one of the most critical periods of history the same peril of a government reduced to impotence.

The issue presented here transcends any other issue, real or alleged, which is now before the American people. H. R. 1776 is an important measure. But the questions it raises are small in comparison with the question of whether the government of the United States is to be capable of reaching decisions on the grave issues which confront us. The Gospel According To St. Mark

Howbeit, Jesus suffered him not, but saith unto him, Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compassion on thee.

And he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis how great things Jesus had done for him: and all men did marvel.

And when Jesus was passed over again by ship unto the other side, much people gathered unto him: and lo was nigh unto the sea.

And, behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus by name; and when he saw him, he fell at his feet,

And besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death: I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be healed; and she shall live.

And Jesus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him.

And a certain woman, which had an issue of blood twelve years,

And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse,

Colored Teeth

Minneapolis Star-Journal

The "pearly teeth"—celebrated by poets from earliest times may soon go out of fashion, for science is developing a plastic called acrylate resin as a dandy material for artificial teeth.

One of the advantages of this substance is that it can be given any permanent color from dazzling white to the various shades of pinks, yellows, reds and blues to jet black. When its use as teeth is fully developed, it not only resins may provide better molars than the kind that grow naturally.

Scientists say that such soft and sophisticated foods that teeth may become obsolescent. When they no longer serve as the introduction of color for artificial teeth will give countless opportunities for effective blends with the tints of necklaces and costumes, and for the new motorcar shades. Our notion that white is a proper tooth color probably will be modified as a habit of thinking, that will disappear about the time our natural teeth do.

Alberta Leads

Lethbridge Herald

Ontario farmers had better look to their laurels. In the first six weeks of 1941 Ontario farmers have delivered to packing plants 225,000 hogs. Alberta farmers have delivered 31,000 hogs. Last month Albertans delivered 31,000 against Ontario's 33,000.

Competition for markets for farm products within Canada has never been great while the west could retail its entire hog crop. With the wheat market badly clogged western farmers are turning to hog production in which they compete more directly within Canada. What is happening in hog production shows what the west can do when forced to it.

Life-Saving

London Times

The year 1940 was for the lifeboat service the most strenuous in its history of 117 years. Lifeboats rescued 560 lives—more than in any year before in one year. They also helped to save 87 vessels from destruction. Questions and Answers

Questions: Mrs. A. B. writes: Is it necessary for the housewife to take exercises in view of the fact that she gets a lot of activity by sweeping, bedmaking, dusting, etc?

Answers: Because of the fact that housework encourages a lot of bending over of the body, it is a good plan to take some exercises to counteract this tendency. Could you give the spine straight while working, and do all of the necessary bending from the hips, without allowing the upper part of the boly to slump over, and your housework will then be of value in preserving an attractive posture.

Question: Mr. G. H. writes: I am very worried about my wife who is suffering from what the doctors say is goiter trouble. Could you give me some information on this trouble and what the symptoms are? I read your column regularly and it has helped us a lot.

Answer: There are several forms of goiter, which is an affection of the thyroid gland. In the exophthalmic type, known as exophthalmic goiter, some of the symptoms are: Loss of weight accompanied by normal appetite, nervousness, restlessness, a very rapid heart beat and certain changes in the eyes which give the patient the appearance of staring. The skin is likely to be soft and moist and to flush easily. The movements of the patient are restless and rapid and there is ample evidence of nervous energy being burned up. Another type is that known as "simple goitre" in which the gland in the neck is enlarged, but the symptoms are not as severe, and the eyes are not affected. The cause may be found in a deficiency of iodine in the food consumed, or an inability of the gland itself to assimilate the iodine taken in the form of food. I am sending you Dr. Frank McCoy's articles entitled "Goiter" and another "Iodine Starches and Goitre." Any other reader may secure these by writing to the McCoy Health Service, enclosing a large self-addressed envelope and 8 cents in stamps.

What It Is

Mosby's Tonic is a new advanced compound containing juices from 15 roots and herbs. Not one is a habit-forming drug. It is taken after meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus helping Nature eliminate the poisons that cause stomach troubles and permitting the kidneys and liver to function properly. It acts within 10 minutes to relieve gas pains, sourness, bloat and belching. It will not gripe or nauseate you like some liver medicines. It will make your liver more active and help clear away the old bile from your system. At the same time, Mosby's Tonic helps Nature eliminate poisons from the kidneys to relieve backache.

Now, whether or not it will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will relieve your suffering in a day or a week—remains to be seen. But owing to the merit of this medicine it would seem only wise to try it for 25c.

This offer is good today and tomorrow ONLY, so read the rest of this announcement and act at once. Do this in fairness to yourself and your family.

What It Will Do

Mosby's Tonic will cleanse your bowels (gradually not drastic or severe) and tone them to better daily action.

It will bring out gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been the real cause all along of your gas pains, soreness and stomach distress.

Mosby's Tonic will help Nature relieve indigestion, difficult breathing due to gassy stomach, dyspepsia and pain in chest due to stomach gas.

It will give you a new appetite, a real desire for food.

Mosby's Tonic will act as a diuretic to sluggish kidneys thus relieving backache, sharp pains and disturbed sleep caused by slow kidney action.

It will help clear up skin eruptions that are caused by the impurities in the organs thus avoiding the sallow, pasty ("muddy" complexion) that is due to sluggish liver.

By removing accumulation of poisons from the kidneys and bloodstream, it helps relieve rheumatism and neuritis pains.

Mosby's Tonic will make your STOMACH, LIVER, KIDNEYS and BOWELS more active, build you up in general and make you FEEL a different MAN or WOMAN.

G. H. MOSBY, Originator of Mosby's TONIC, who chooses today and tomorrow to offer his medicine purely on a trial basis, at a price anyone can afford.

CRITICISM IN AUSTRALIA OF PREMIER FADES

MELBOURNE, March 7.—(CP)—The Australian public Thursday night was unimpressed by pression criticism by a few Labor members of Prime Minister Menzies' recent speech in London on the state of affairs in the Pacific. John Forde, deputy Labor leader, termed it "an appeasement speech to Japan."

Government members of the war council, of which Forde is a member, said after a meeting of the council to discuss the Menzies speech that there was no conflict between the Prime Minister's words and the recent warning of the war council that a grave situation existed.

Cabinet ministers said that Labor members of the council had been satisfied that Mr. Menzies had been fully aware of the facts when he made his speech.

Labor members still say that they consider the recent visit he should have used greater emphasis on Australia's determination to defend herself and all the Empire.

The federal parliament will meet next Wednesday.

Mass Production Wheat Specialist On Way To Britain

Campbell's trip aroused some speculation that his mission might have to do with an emergency attempt at mass production of wheat in the British Isles.

The middle letters of both words are already in place, and also the initial and final letters of the seven-letter words. So your job is to find the right five-letter words to complete the puzzle and satisfy these conditions.

Looking them Over

By JACK KELLY

CALGARY, March 7.—I have never seen such a sorrowful sight in any sport as the Flyers' showing against Calgary Stampeders here last night and I sincerely hope I never have to see anything like it again.

Edmontonians who didn't see this debacle can thank their lucky stars. It was enough to give you nightmares for weeks.

When a team goes down by a close margin, fighting gallantly every second of the time, you can at least squeeze out of it the satisfaction of knowing that it was a loss that no one needs to be ashamed of.

Last night's game here wasn't that kind. It wasn't that the Stampeders suddenly rose to new heights or that goalie Art Rice-Jones was unbeatable, the brutal truth is that the Flyers sank to a new low. The only resemblance between the Flyers of last night and the Flyers who beat Calgary in Edmonton on Tuesday is that they had on the same uniforms.

Actually I don't believe the Edmonton forwards tested the Calgary goalie with more than a dozen good shots all through the game. It was the old story—missing passes by an inch, pucks sailing wide, never seeming to be in the right position—and not a single break coming their way from start to finish.

Those first two Calgary goals were outright gifts from fortune if there were any. Even the Calgary sport writers in the press box frankly admitted that.

But that was no excuse for what followed. The Stampeders didn't go back on a defensive, they kept right on playing a fast, open, offensive type of hockey. They deserved to win—and win by the score that they did—against the sort of team the Flyers were last night.

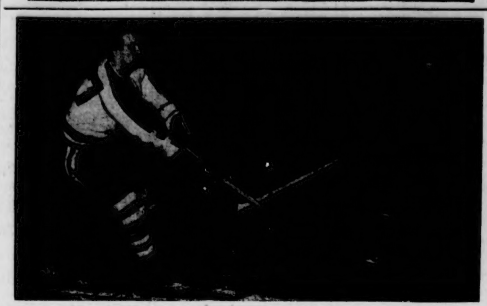

Some of the penalties called against the Flyers looked like bad judgment on the part of the officials, but here again these calls were not so terrible that they can be blamed for the performance of the Edmonton club.

The most pitiful people in the arena consisted of the small group of Edmonton fans who went to a lot of trouble and expense to come down and cheer the Flyers in their big test. They took a terrible razzing from Calgarians for a while and then even the Stampeder backers began to feel sorry for them and laid off. There never was a time after the first few minutes of play when the Flyers even looked like they had a chance to win.

And that winds up senior hockey in its funeral shrouds for another season so far as Edmonton is concerned.

Flyers Fade From Playoffs Under 9-1 Avalanche

Calgary Stampeders Advance To Finals Against Lethbridge

By JACK KELLY
Edmonton Bulletin Sports Editor

CALGARY, March 7—In what was probably the most depressing finale ever staged by an Edmonton Senior Hockey Club, the Flyers were knocked out of the Alberta title chase here last night, swamped under a 9-1 count piled up against them in the third and deciding game of the semi-final series by Calgary Stampeders.

Even Calgarians did not seem to relish their win very much. It was so flat and insipid that the last goals brought hardly a ripple of applause and the capacity crowd filed out of the arena with none of the shouting or excited talking that usually marks the passing of a playoff hurdle.

The Stampeders now go to Lethbridge on Saturday to open a best of five series with the Leafs for the Alberta championship. The Flyers now pack their hockey stuff away for another season.

The story of last night's debacle was the same old story of Flyer defeats—they couldn't do a thing right.

Play had been under way just two minutes and 47 seconds when Edmonton fans present got an inkling of the impending doom hanging over their playoff hopes.

Dec Duchak of the Stampeders got his stick on the puck just in front of the players' box and fired the shot for the first goal. Goalie Pow didn't appear to see the puck until it was nearly to him. He tried to catch it, but it slipped through under his elbow and into the net. Duchak's shot wasn't more than 20 feet short of half the length of the ice.

Play settled down then for a few minutes, but Flyers passes and rushes weren't meshing at all. Inside of five minutes you got the feeling that the boys would never get it done that night.

SECOND A CREEPER

Then at the half way mark in the first period came the second Stampeder goal. A Calgary rush jammed up at the Flyer goalmouth. Thirlwell just touched a rebound from Quigley's shot and the puck barely crept across the goal line into the scoring zone. Goalie Pow was doubled over at the time and couldn't possibly reach the rubber although it was sliding in so slowly that you could have said Horace Maurice Richmond was very discinctly before it actually crossed the line.

Before the period ended the Stampeders made it 3-0 on a shot by Shannon. Either Shannon was having one of the luckiest nights of his career or else Goalie Pow was having the worst night of his. That puck had no more right getting into the Edmonton net than a slide of bacon has being present at Yum Kippur festivities.

By this time the scattering of Edmonton fans present had the old sinking feeling at its worst. Pow was off and so was the entire team.

The second period brought a flood of penalties, four of them falling on Flyers for such alleged transgressions as tripping, high sticking and boarding. For a minute Edmonton was two men short as Walter McIntyre and Ducky Skinner both cooled on the penalty bench. By frantic efforts the Flyers held off the Stampeders scoreless for some 16 minutes and Quigley chalked up Calgary's fourth goal on Spruil's pass while Mullen was still serving a penalty.

CAN'T BE DESCRIBED

The third period was something that simply can't be described. I sat through it once and absolutely refuse to make others suffer as I did by describing the play in any detail. It will suffice to be satisfied to say that Calgary got five goals, three by Duchak, one by Jempson and one by Sproule. Alex Watt of the Flyers drew two penalties, a minor and a five-minute stretch, the latter for hitting Quigley with his shoulder and driving him into the boards so hard that he had to be carried off for the rest of the game.

Gordon Watt drew a minor penalty for tripping early in this final period and the Stampeders scored three goals in exactly 56 seconds while he was off the ice.

That lone Flyer goal came late in the game when there was absolutely no chance of overcoming the big Calgary lead of 9-0. It came on a fast, berakaway when two Stampeders and one Flyer happened to be serving penalties. Joe Brown did the scoring on O'Keefe's pass.

Glace Bay Miners Threaten Strike Over Hockey Troubles

GLACE BAY, N.S., March 7—(CP)—Hockey-frenzied colliery workers may go on strike to protest "discrimination" against Glace Bay Miners in the Cape Breton hockey league playoffs, according to D. W. Morrison, mayor of this town and district president of the United Mine Workers of America.

He said Thursday night he had telegraphed President George Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association saying full mining was running so high "there may be stoppage of work in mines." He feared this might result in "stoppage of shipment of coal to Sydney."

His telegram was sent while the eligibility of Goalie Bill Fraser of Miners was still under debate. Since then, Fraser has been barred from further play, though Glace Bay has been awarded the three playoff games it won from Sydney in the Dominion C.B.H.L. final while using Fraser.

Another indication of Glace Bay's rising temperature over the Fraser affair came last night when the board of trade approved a resolution against buying from Sydney wholesalers until the Sydney club dropped its protest against the use of Fraser, borrowed from North Sydney Victorias for the series.

League Allows Games To Stand

SYDNEY, N.S., March 7—(CP)—President A. D. Campbell of the Cape Breton Hockey League announced Thursday Glace Bay Miners' three wins in the league finals against Sydney Millionaires will stand, though the Glace Bay goalie has been disqualified from further play.

President Campbell said he had been advised by Hanson Dowell of Middleton, N.S., vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and acting secretary-treasurer of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association, that Miners were to retain the victories they won while disputed Goalie Bill Fraser in the nets. One more win would give Miners the best-in-seven round.

Accepting Dowell's ruling, Campbell ordered resumption of the playoffs, suspended when the Fraser issue broke out. The fourth game was to have been played last night. No date for it was set immediately.

Must Proceed Without Fraser

MONCTON, N.B., March 7—(CP)—Frank J. Gallagher, president of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association, Thursday night ruled Goalie Bill (Lega) Fraser ineligible to play with Glace Bay Miners in the Cape Breton Hockey Senior League playoffs.

Gallagher said the Cape Breton League must declare a champion to play in the Maritime finals, slated to open March 14, against the Halifax-Truro versus Saint John winners.

The electric umpire will not eliminate the regular plate umpire.

"The Magic Eye, operating on an upright beam, will register when a pitched ball crosses the plate," said President Ray Dumont. "The plate plate umpire will have to decide whether the pitch was high, low or in the strike zone.

"It is not the purpose of our program to eliminate the umpire, but to help him," Dumont said. "We could rig up an electric eye to measure the height of a pitch as well, but we feel the umpire is a fixture in the national pastime."

The directors revealed yesterday that the government has placed bids with sporting goods manufacturers for equipment to outfit 16,500 sandlot teams at army training camps.

If they are operated in organized leagues, army teams would be permitted to compete in the 48 state tournaments without qualifying in district tournaments, the directors ruled.

VANCOUVER MAY JOIN WESTERN FOOTBALL UNION

VANCOUVER, March 7.—(CP)—Hopes that Vancouver might enter a Canadian rugby team in the Western Inter-Provincial Rugby Union circuit this summer were expressed here Thursday night following an open meeting of fans and players sponsored by the British Columbia Rugby Union.

A temporary executive committee was appointed with the idea of forming a strong club membership to support a team which would seek admission to the prairie loop. This committee will report back to the members at large next Thursday.

Last night's action was the first definite step taken in Vancouver in the past six years to produce a team capable of competing on even terms with the prairie clubs.

Mark Long, a charter member of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, was one of the chief speakers at the meeting and the first to make a cash contribution towards a Vancouver team for the coming season.

Fort William Beats Dauphin

FORT WILLIAM, March 7.—(CP)—Fort William Canada Cars, Thunder Bay intermediate hockey champions, beat Dauphin, Manitoba titlists, 8-5 Thursday night in the first of the best of three interprovincial final. The second game will be played here tonight.

The Cars took a 1-0 lead in the first period, scored four goals in the second and three in the final. Dauphin rallied in the third period to score their five.

EXPERTS FAVOR BILLY SOOSE FOR TONIGHT'S BOUT

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—On the plausible theory that a guy who got just a little bit hurt the first time he played with dynamite will use a longer fuse next time, the experts have made Billy Soose the favorite for his 12-round return bout with Ernie Vigh at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The fancy Dan from Farrell, Pa., beat Vigh a month ago, but the margi n was barely perceptible. Soose was the betting choice last time.

A lot of critics thought Vigh made a mistake in the other bout when he tried to outbox the Pennsylvanian —something at which he hardly could be expected to succeed since Soose is one of the neatest boxers to show here in some time.

This time Vigh, the pride of Newburgh, N.Y., promises to keep crowding Soose from the opening bell, looking for an opening for one of his crushing punches. However, Soose remains the choice at 5-8.

Girls' Hockey

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RIMBEY, Alta., March 7.—Rimbey Flyers, a 'teen-age girls' hockey club added another laurel to their crown Monday when they defeated a fast squad of ladies from Bashaw, 4-0.

Belva Atkinson, Beatrice Eckhart, Enid Royer and Patricia Johnston scored for Rimbey and others on the team were: Viola Gunn, Margaret Johnston, Doris Atkinson, Madeline and Elva Parker.

Bill McKechnie Satisfied With 1941 Edition Of Reds

TAMPA, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Cincinnati Reds finished in the top slot in the National League race the last two seasons and Big Chief McKenzie this year takes the attitude he is well satisfied with what he's got and it's up to the other clubs to prove that it isn't good enough.

They're the champions and they look more like it every day. The only possible question mark is shortstop, where Eddie Joost is being counted upon to fill the place vacated by Billy Myers. Some seem to think he is a little on the light side to stand up under steady play. His minor league record indicates otherwise.

The rest of the infield—Bill Werber, Linus Frey and Frank McCormick—has everything under control.

The acquisition of Jimmy Gleeson is expected to add punch to an outfield squad which already includes such capable men as Ival Goodman, Mike McCormick, Harry Craft and Jimmy Ripple. Ripple is something of the problem child.

Ernie Lombardi and Warren Giles have been trying to stare each other down over Lombardi's contract. In the meantime, Dick West has sold himself to McKechnie and he is certain for considerable catching duty next summer.

The pitching staff is the nearest thing to a monopoly in the league. Even if Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer should fall off a little, there are plenty of men to take up the slack.

FIVE MOUNTIES SCORE POSSIBLE IN RIFLE SHOOT

A team from the R.C.M.P. here Thursday evening banged out a top score of 988 in small bore rifle shooting competitions carried out weekly amongst Edmonton military units. Shooting at their own barracks, the Mounties outpointed the South Edmonton battalion of the Veterans Volunteer Reserve who aimed, pulled the trigger and fired to a total of 982 points.

High scorers from the R.C.M.P. detachment were Constable Richards, Binnie and McManus. Sgt. Pard, Inspector Marson and Cpl. Mighall each with 100. V.V.R. sharp-shooters included H. Taylor, E. Shand and G. F. Morrison each with 100. J. G. Jones and D. M. McCallum weren't far behind with 99 each.

At the same range later in the evening, the R.C.M.P. hair-triggered 987 over their opponents, the Second 49th Battalion, Edmonton Regiment. C.A. (R.) with 986 points. Totals of 100 were reached in the Mounties' team by Cpl. Mighall, Const. Waters, Lance Cpl. Simoneau and Sgt. Ford. Pte. Gilbert of the Fighting Forty-Niners was the only member of his team to pull down the 100 score. The company sergeant-major, Tommy Booker reached 99 while C.S.M. Laubmann and Pte. G. Hutchinson chalked up 98 each.

WRONG END AGAIN

Wednesday evening at the R.C.M.P. home for hair-triggers, the Forty-ninth was again on the wrong end of a 988-948 score, as marked up against them by their traditional "enemies," the Second Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers, C.A. (R.). Sgt. Major Booker this time brought his score up to 96 but he was still below other high scorers in the unit. J. A. Walbe with 99 and others with 98. Fusilier headliner was S. A. Lung with 99 and L. E. Musgrove and M. Flowers each with 99.

Other till Wednesday featured members of the 19th Alberta Dragoons and the North Edmonton Battalion of the Veterans Volunteer Reserve. V.V.R. toppers were C. A. Dupre, A.C. Rahman, P. A. Kent and H. Air War Adds New Thrills To Golf On British Courses

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, March 7.—(AP)—The war has introduced a lot of new hazards to the game of golf. To begin with, aircraft obstacles—designed to prevent landing of any axis planes—dot the British courses.

Many of the best courses near London are scarred and pitted by bombs. And you have to play out of bomb craters, too—no lifting. The hazards may make the game more interesting, but war conditions have curtailed all sports.

Of eight major British sports, only soccer and racing cling to any semblance of their pre-war glory but even their total attendance is off between 65 and 70 per cent.

Participation in sports has fallen off nearly as much despite the widespread athletic programs of the fighting forces. Golf, tennis, rugby, cricket, track, rowing—all big amateur participant sports of the pre-war days—are at their lowest levels since 1917-18.

Sportsmen name bombers and national service as the main reasons. "A man doesn't have time or the inclination to play 18 holes of golf or run across country any more," said Geoffrey Sharpe, president of the Blackheath Harriers, London Sports club. "Not after he's worked eight hours at his office and then done six or eight hours as a fire fighter or an air raid warden." The comparative expense of golf clubs, tennis rackets and other things also limits the number of participants.

Steeplechasing is in high favor at present, but the bookies report betting "light." The Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, however, will not be run this year—for the first time since its inception 104 years ago. As in 1940, Britain will run a substitute Derby, the Oaks, the 2,000 Guineas and the St. Leger. Nominations for these have been high. There are 65 for the Derby, 54 for the Oaksis, 53 for the 2,000 Guineas, and 81 for the St. Leger.

Three top owners of the British turf, Dorothy Paget, Fred Darling and J. V. Bank, all have entries for the Derby, but many owners have sold their horses to Irish stables or are racing in Ireland. For the first time in 11 years the Aga Khan's name is missing from the list of owners of Derby nominees.

ONE-THIRD ATTENDANCE

As to soccer—on Saturday, Jan. 25, for instance, there were 34 professional soccer games in Britain, with a total attendance of 48,150. This was less than a third of the average pre-war attendance for the same number of games. Many of the top stars have joined the fighting services. There has been a long tournament between teams of Norwegian, Dutch, Belgian, French, Czechs, and British soldiers.

The fight game is coming back slowly through the medium of matinee shows and unoccupied theatres. These have been drawing very well with such antients as Kid Berg and Larry Gains in the leading ranks. Tommy Farr periodically challenges every heavyweight in the world, but asks more than harried promoters can offer. Len Harvey and Eric Boon, Britain's top big and little fighters, have not yet been lured into indoor rings, but they're weakening.

Rugby, greatly encouraged in the army, is flourishing there and in the public schools. Oddly, it also is a favorite sport of the Royal Navy, whose destroyer crews dash from dock to field for an afternoon of sport.

NEW PLAYERS HELP PROVIDENCE AGAINST CAPS

PROVIDENCE, R.I., March 7.—(AP)—Providence Reds, aided by two new players, strengthened their lead in the eastern division of the American Hockey League Thursday night by overwhelming Indianapolis Capitals 6-1. Butch Bouchard and Augie Herchenratter, recent Providence acquisitions, each scored a goal.

The Reds piled up a four-goal lead before Les Douglas managed to break through Goalie Mike Karakas in the final period and save the capitals from a shut-out. Hugh Gustafson, George Johnston, Paul Platz, and Art Girioux scored the other Reds' goals.

Buffalo Downs New Haven 4-3

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 7.—(AP)—Buffalo Bisons staved off New Haven's furious closing drive here Thursday night to down the Eagles 4-3 and tie Indianapolis for third place, last playoff position, in the western division of the American Hockey League.

Jack Toupin, Debe Klein, Bib Gracie and Leroy Goldsworthy scored for Buffalo. Lou Trudel netted two goals and George Patterson one for the Eagles.

Hershey Bears Make Playoffs

HERSHEY, Pa., March 7.—(AP)—Hershey Bears made a position in the American Hockey League playoffs a mathematical "sure thing" by defeating Pittsburgh Hornets 5-1 here Thursday night to clinch second place in the circuit's western division.

Gordon Pettinger and Gordon Bruce each scored two for the Bears while Captain Wally Kilrea got the other. Hellyer netted for Pittsburgh.

Did Lou See Lew?

OLIVER LEAVES GOLF FOR ARMY

TRENTON, N.J., March 7.—(BUP)—Ed "Porky" Oliver today became the first big-time professional golfer to don the uniform of a selective service draftee.

Oliver, who is 24 and weighs 220 pounds, withdrew from the Miami-Biltmore four-ball championship Wednesday and flew from Coral Gables, Fla., to the Trenton induction station.

Maj. Allyne Freeman said that Oliver passed his physical exam with "flying colors."

"He's a good, strong fellow who should make a good soldier," the major said. "He took everything with a smile."

Golfing fame reached out for Oliver when he was disqualified from the U.S. Open golf championship last year after tying Lawson Little and Gene Sarazen for the title. He was ruled out of the play-off for the crown because he had started his final round a few minutes too early.

Five Pin Bowlers Continue Boosting Up Tourney Records

Palmer Defeats Manitoba To Escape Tie With Ontario

TORONTO, March 7.—(CP)—Howard Palmer's Alberta rink from the Calgary Curling Club won the Canadian championship at the Macdonald Brier Tankard Thursday night by defeating Manitoba, skipped by Albert Wakefield of Winnipeg, 11-8 to finish the round-robin event with a record of eight victories and one loss.

Entering the final round a game ahead of Ontario and Saskatchewan, Palmer's Albertans eliminated the possibility of a playoff with a well-deserved triumph over the Manitobans. Ontario defeated British Columbia 10-9 after an extra end to leave the issue squarely up to Palmer and the Alberta skip did not falter.

Ontario took second place with seven victories and two defeats and Saskatchewan and Northern Ontario shared third and fourth with six victories and three losses each.

Palmer's victory completed the last draft of a stirring testimonial to the type of curler who pits a keen eye against a quick eye, a steady arm against a strong one. He wrote the finish to the story of a draw-curler as opposed to a knock-out curler.

TAKES EARLY LEAD

His final victory was not an exciting game. Palmer took an early lead and never gave it up. He out-drew the Manitoba rink, out-shot it when he had to and just plain out-curled it when there was a question of winning or losing an important end.

While Palmer was completing his record, Perry Hall of Kitchener, Ont., won a stirring extra end contest 10-9 over Billy Finlay's British Columbia four. Two deuces were scored when Hall's last rock sneaked through a port to the button with the aid of persuasive sweeping — gave Ontario second place.

Johnny Malcolm's New Brunswicks scored a surprise 12-3 victory over Bill Dunbar's crack Saskatchewan rink in the final round while Don Beat's Northern Ontarios trounced Freddie Heath's Nova Scotia quartet 17-8. In the other game, W. R. Cruikshank's Prince Edward Island rink won 14-7 over the Quebec four skipped by C. H. Spidle.

THIRD ALBERTA WIN

Palmer's victory took the Macdonald's Brier tankard to Alberta for the third time, duplicating the triumphs of Cliff Manahan's Edmonton rink in 1933 and 1937. It was the first time Palmer had won the Brier but his third appearance in the annual classic.

He won it with a sterling type of leadership which seemed inspired at least partially by his rink-mates. He seldom shouted and never got excited. He was just plain drawcurler all the way.

His young third-man was a sensation through the nine rounds. Only 25 years old, Jack Le Bow curled as if he was born and raised within hailing distance of a fireplug. It was his first shot at bigtime curling. Art Gooder, the second man, is a native of Olds, Alta., and was making his first appearance in the Brier. Clair Webb, lead, had been in the cradle before—in 1939 as lead for the rink Howard Palmer skipped in that event.

There wasn't enough doubt in the Alberta-Manitoba match to make it an outstanding one, but the Palmer curlers didn't relax until they were as sure as the gallery that Alberta would be champion to succeed Howard Wood of Winnipeg, winner in 1940.

Palmer's only defeat in the nine games he played was in the second round when Bill Dunbar drew with his final rock on the last end to win 9-8. Palmer was given only an outside chance when play started Thursday, but by the end of the afternoon's round he was favored, and strongly.

Against Manitoba, he was forced to several final shots. On the third he drew with his last rock to take out a Manitoba shot-rock and count two. He cut off a Manitoba three-and on the sixth and duplicated that performance on the 11th.

Hall's really great shot to win his extra-end contest against British Columbia was a climax to a sort of a musical-comedy 12th end. Coming home two up, Hall's rink blew suddenly. It was there one moment and gone the next and before Hall could say "Broom and Slape" Mr. William Finlay of the Vancouver Curling Club was lying three. In later skirmishing the Hall rink came back a trifle and at one time looked like winning the end. But Finlay made a shot only a veteran could make—a spread, which took two Hall rocks and left Finlay two —and tied it up.

Hall's winning rock operated something along the fashion of a second-storey man. Billy Finlay's shot rock was almost out of sight behind guards, but Hall curled one in there and won his second place.

B.C.-ONTARIO MATCH CLOSE

It had been a close contest all the way, with Finlay at absolutely top form while Hall was nervous and jittery. On one shot on the 12th end his third man, Jack Lucas, argued regarding the advisability or lack of some of one particular shot, but Hall won.

Johnny Malcolm's triumph over Saskatchewan's Dunbar rink wasn't as surprising as it looked at first glance. Malcolm curled well with the support all through the event. It was only his second win of the bonspiel but it was no fluke. He counted early and—getting over a counter in there and then guarding it so well Dunbar's rink couldn't touch it.

Don Beat's unpredictable Northern Ontario rink was curling steadily again and Nova Scotia was no match. At one point in the one-sided contest Cliff Tuck, Beat's third, fell on his own rock while sweeping and Nova Scotia insisted he take it over. Tuck purposely threw his rock light and it stopped short of the hog-line.

The game between Prince Edward Island and Quebec was one in which the Quebec rink played in the event, although still shorthanded through illness of Edmond St. Amand, third-man. A five-end, P.E.I. skip Bill Cruickshank built up on the eighth and practically ended the Quebec hopes on that end. Early misses by Quebec curlers gave Cruikshank a four in the house and he came in with his own last rock to make it five.

PALMER'S GREAT SHOT

On looking back, Palmer's six-ender over Ontario in the morning round was the biggest moment of the bonspiel, so far. He made a shot he may never make again, may never even try again. His rink had five rocks placed around the house, but his closest one was third shot. Two fine stones had come in one-two for first and second shot-rocks, the first thrown by Ontario third man Jack Lucas and the second by Hall.

The two Ontario rocks were directly in line with one Alberta stone and all Palmer had to do was curl through a port, hit the first alone on an angle so it would hit the second on an angle so they would pass on either side of the Alberta rock third in line. Sounds complicated, doesn't it? It was. But Palmer made it.

In the afternoon round Alberta stopped Prince Edward Island 13-10 while Saskatchewan won 13-9 over Quebec. Ontario played the first extra-end of the event against Nova Scotia, winning 9-8 on Hall's last rock. Kirkland Lake beat Manitoba 9-7 and British Columbia stopped New Brunswick 11-7. The Ontario-Nova Scotia match was the best one, a match which had the gallery flowing over other vacant icesurfaces for the final end.

Rookie Net Minder Helps Canadiens To First Victory Over Leafs

Benoit Sinks Tying Counter, Assists Quilty Score Winner

MONTREAL, March 7.—(CP)—Rookie goalie, Paul Bibeault, signed from amateur ranks just a few hours earlier, made his first National Hockey League start a winning one here Thursday night as the sixth-place Canadiens fought to a 4-3 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs before a crowd of 9,553.

A goal by centre Johnny Quilty early in the final period broke a 3-3 deadlock to give Canadiens their first victory in eight meetings against the Leafs, who missed a chance to pull into a first-place tie with the idle Boston Bruins. In the first seven clashes of the clubs, Toronto won six and the other was a draw.

Canadiens had pulled into the draw on a second-period goal by winger Joe Benoit of Edmonton after Toronto took a 3-2 lead in an action-packed first period. The other Montreal tallies went to Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands, while Red Heron, Bob Davidson and Dave Schriner all counted for the Leafs in the initial session.

Product of Montreal Junior hockey, Bibeault was a little nervous in the first frame but turned in a brilliant performance to keep the Leafs scoreless in the last two sessions. He was signed Thursday from the amateur Canadiens of the Quebec Senior Hockey League to replace goalie Bert Gardiner, bothered by a slubborn knee-injury in the last few matches.

Both the tying and winning Canadien goals came while Toronto was a man short. Heron was serving a penalty in the second frame when Benoit took passes from Toe Blake and Quilty to score from a scramble in front of the net and the same three combined for the winning marker, with Quilty the marksman, while Reg Hamilton was off. Early in the last frame.

The Leafs had their best chance to win the match late in the second period when, with the count tied at 3-3, Canadiens were put two men short by successive penalties to two defencemen, Kenny Reardon and Red Goupille. The Habitants held out brilliantly, however, until the pressure was eased by a Toronto penalty for playing seven men.

Bruneteau Equals High Goal Record

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP)—Modere (Mud) Bruneteau equalled the season's high-scoring mark Thursday night by counting four times as Detroit Red Wings defeated New York Americans 6-1 in a National League game that erased the last mathematical chance the Americans had of entering the post-season Stanley Cup play-offs.

Hank Goldup of Toronto Maple Leafs was the only other player this season to score four goals in one game and he also had goals Earl Robertson of the Americans as his victim.

The Red Wings took sole possession of third place in the league standing, breaking a tie with the idle New York Rangers.

Abetting Bruneteau on his high scoring exhibition were his linemates, Gus Giesebrecht and Syd Howe. Giesebrecht was in on all four plays, earning four assists, while Howe picked up three. The other Detroit goals were by Don Grosso and Carl Liscombe.

The Americans saved a shut-out late in the third period when Chuck Corrigan lifted a short shot that hit Mowers on the shoulder, rolled over and dropped off his back into the cage.

Corrigan and the league's bad man, Jimmy Orlando, got into a scrappy but fierce fight in which Orlando was knocked on his back. Referee Mickey Ion ruled that Orlando was the instigator and gave him a major penalty, Corrigan receiving a minor.

ORENGO LIKELY REPLACE JURGES GIANTS' LINEUP

By PAUL SCHEFFELS

NEW YORK, March 7—(UP)—The item from Miami said briefly that Billy Jurges was through as a regular player with the New York Giants and that "only Joe Orengo" was available as a replacement.

Today that "Only Orengo" stands as the most unfair alliteration in baseball because the husky young San Francisco Italian's short-stopping talents are varied enough to propel the Giants back into the National league pennant picture for the first time in four years.

Undoubtedly the inability of Jurges to perform at his shortstop post with his accurate regularity is a terrific blow to the Giants' machine on paper but let's take a look at the "Only Orengo" lyrics and see if the tune should be a dirge or a victory song.

LOTS OF GAB

His chief claim to major league fame in his two years with the St. Louis Cardinals is a reputation for being the gabbiest ballplayer in the National league. Coming in a circuit which also harbors such renowned adjective-destroyers as Leo Durocher, Dizzy Dean, Frankie Frisch and Gabby Hartnett, to name a few, that is quite a distinction. His physical attributes are a fine pair of hands, an iron arm and best of all, a heart that fits right into the profession.

On the technical side, he's played third base in the third year with the Cardinals and during 129 gmaes, scored 58 runs, connected for 119 hits, scored 20 doubles, four triples, and seven homer runs and drove in 56 runs for a batting average of .287.

He came to the Giants last Nov. 29 for cash and players with only one outstanding fault, an unorthodox batting swing that baseball's rail-birds blame for his strikeout record—90 in 129 games.

HIS OWN IDEAS

Listen to Joe's rebuttal:

"If I'm just let alone and my natural style is unchanged, I betcha I'll outhit more players than I am outhit by this year.

"I'm not the first gent that swung awkwardly—look at Al Simmons and Joe Medwick. They both have peculiar starts and they tell me those boys could hit. Simmons had to hit 'em 'where they weren't' and Medwick plasters 'wild pitches, inside or outside.'"

Orengo has been deferred into class 3A by the selective service as a man with dependents. He drives a meat truck during the off-season and managed a ball team for a packing company to the Class A Winter League title in San Francisco.

Manager Bill Terry has already gone on record with "It looks like Jurges is not and Orengo is in. I have neither the money nor the players to make a deal for another star. I'm going to help Joe with all I know about infield work and —you never can tell."

ROSSDALE WINS FROM FLYERS 3-1

Rossdale midgets added another playoff series to their list on Thursday night as they defeated Flyers, the Parks league champions, 3-1 to take the series 6-3 on the two games.

Woywitka scored for the Flyers on Lavallee's pass in the first period, but Raymond Loyer evened things up for Rossdale on a play with Ron Lane and before the period ended Bill Ingram rammed in another.

Ingram also scored in the last period.

Play was very even throughout the entire game.

GIANTS OF GOLF TO PLAY BENEFIT HELP RED CROSS

In the dawn of March 15 a seaplane will put in here and take on its spectacular cargo for the two-hour flight to Nassau.

That afternoon, over the pretty Nassau course, Hagen and Sarazen will pair against Jones and Armour in the first round of their 36-hole four-ball match for the benefit of the Red Cross, with the Duke putting down the scores. The second round will be played the following day.

The original plan was for the Duke to play the first day, paired with his friend of other days, Jones, but the Governor of the Bahamas tried a practice round to see how he was doing and decided "nobody wants to watch me play, let's make it a real golf match."

LANDIS TO VOID TRANSFER OPTION

CHICAGO, March 7.—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis, in a letter to all major league clubs, indicated Thursday another step will be taken to tighten baseball law governing major-minor league relations when the organizations hold their annual meetings next fall.

"It should not be possible for a player, major or minor, to be demoted to the minors without service without waivers," Landis said in reference to a rule which allows certain players to be transferred optionally without waivers being asked on them.

In the interests of players and the general welfare of baseball, legislation should be enacted which will safeguard the players' rights in such cases," he said.

Borden Town All Stars Beat Kitscoty, 6-5

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LLOYDMINSTER, March 7.—It was a different Lloydminster All-Star hockey team that faced the Kitscoty club on the feature event of the annual Elks carnival, to that which opposed the western team in the annual Board of Trade hockey tournament a week ago. Final score was 6-5.

The strong Kitscoty defense of Cairns in goal and Pidcock and H. Chisholm in front of him kept the score down considerably. Both clubs scored within the first minute of play. McGuffie caught a rebound to put the locals in the lead halfway through the first but Gray and Wright tied the score five minutes later.

In the second period the local string, McIvor, Shortell and Duffield got into action, and three goals were rung up without an echo. Stewart broke the ice on a solo effort, then Bob McIvor repeated, and the same player made it 3-2 on a pass from Shortell.

Kitscoty took advantage of a penalty in their early minutes of the third frame to rattle home two counters, Wright and Gray getting the credit. B. Miller of Kitscoty tied the score half way through the frame and Duffield and McIvor combined to put the locals one up two minutes before the final whistle.

Sharkey Sees No Serious Threat To Louis At Present

By BILL KING

BOSTON, March 7.—(AP).—The one person in the world who knows whether Jack Dempsey punched harder than Joe Louis won't tell. He is Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion in 1932, who is willing and eager to discuss every other boxing subject as long as the cash registers keep jingling in the spacious tavern he conducts a stone's throw from the Boston Garden.

Sharkey took kayo punches from both Dempsey and Louis. Dempsey though, got him back in 1927, but Sharkey won the title in 1932, lost to Carnero in 1933, and came out of retirement to meet Louis in 1936.

"Louis will be taken one of these days, but not by any of the heavyweights around today," Sharkey predicts. "Joe's a great puncher, but a very lucky one. He was born just at the right time. If he'd been around with Dempsey, Tunney, Risko and dozens of others who were active with me, he never would have moved out of the preliminary class."

BIG BUSINESS MAN

The "Garralous Gob" of boxing's golden days is now a highly polished and successful business man.

"I've made more of a success of a tavern than any other champion ever did and, as you know, about every one of them had a fling at this business at one time or another," he points out with pride.

Fortunly, but unfol, Sharkey today looks as trim as he did when he was at his peak. "Weight never bothers me," he boasts. "Don't forget, I took off a total of 1,200 pounds when I was campaigning. I'm not letting any unnecessary poundage creep up on me when I'm not looking."

As far as finances go Sharkey probably is better fixed than he was when his earning capacity was the greatest. In those days, all of his purses, except the funds needed for the upkeep of his beautiful Chestnut Hill estate and the living expenses of himself and family went into trust funds.

Some of them have matured and been re-invested soundly. Most of the others will do the same soon. But Sharkey does not have to touch any of them to maintain high living standards for his family. He makes more than enough out of his tavern to meet current expenses and provide him with the pleasures he desires, such as expensive automobiles, theatre parties, and interesting wagers at pool.

RESPECTED NEIGHBOR

Ex-champion Sharkey is a man of substance, a respected neighbor in one of Boston's most exclusive sections and a patron of the arts. His interest in boxing is only academic now, but he will go miles out of his way to help that sport or one of its unfortunate victims.

"I still love boxing," he says, "I should, for it was good to me."

Sharkey's naturally, is a first port of call for every broken down bat-

Unfair Press Criticism Greatest Menace To War Effort Gardiner States

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)—Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of national war services, said in the House of Commons Thursday night that "there is no organized group in the Dominion that has done more since the fall of 1939 to delay the war effort of this country than certain sections of the press in this country."

Mr. Gardiner was speaking in committee on the $1,300,000,000 war appropriation resolution. He said part of the money to be voted would be spent in his department and he proposed to give some details of the department's operations to date.

"I have no objection to criticism based on facts—in fact I invite it," he said.

But those publishing "what are not facts" and making criticism based on such mis-statements were adding to the government's burden.

WRONG INFORMATION

Dealing with criticism based on wrong information placed more of an effort—"more nerve strain"—on ministers than anything else happening inside or outside Canada, Mr. Gardiner said.

When such criticisms were made it was the duty of the minister concerned to clear them up and, if he desired, to criticize those who had been unfairly criticized.

Mr. Gardiner gave a detailed review of the work of taking natonal registration last August, and of the aims and purposes of registration.

Mr. Gardiner spoke as the House neared adjournment after an evening of discussion by many members on Finance Minister Ilsley's resolution preparatory to introduction of the war appropriation measure.

He said that of the 8,000,000 cards resulting from registration, 1,800,000 were completed for men and women capable of working in one of the 1,250 "specialized or reserved" occupations.

These were subdivided into classifications showing those engaged on certain of these reserved occupations and those fitted for one of such occupations, but not at the moment employed in it.

LIST AVAILABLE

There were "12 miles of names," but it had been proven that any name on the list could be obtained at the bureau of statistics in a matter of two or three minutes.

"This list is available and is being used by the government and by industry," Mr. Gardiner said. It had been completed for Ontario and would be completed shortly for the other provinces.

The necessity of always carrying a registration card had been of great assistance to the police, he said, recalling that an escaped German prisoner had been apprehended because he could not produce a card.

Munitions Minister Howe pleaded with opposition members to stop criticism which he said was largely restricted to "turning over old straw" and to forget forecasts he had made six months ago.

He said there would never be a better opportunity for members to get information from him on munitions production and he invited them to question him.

The house turned to the war appropriation resolution late in the afternoon after giving second reading to the pension bill and sending it to the pensions committee.

AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION

First speaker in the appropriation debate was John Diefenbaker (Con., Lake Centre), who suggested every corporation working on war orders should be required to submit its records for government examination at any time.

Aircraft production again came under fire.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Munitions Minister Howe seemed "loath" to abandon Federal Aircraft Limited, the company set up by the government last summer to supervise a $50,000,000 order for Anson training planes.

"What are the reasons why a company that, to date, has been unsuccessful, should be continued in existence?" Mr. Diefenbaker asked.

Mr. Diefenbaker wanted to know whether the reorganization of the Anson program at "several points," proposed by Harvey MacMillan, chairman of the wartime requirements board in a report to the cabinet, was being proceeded with; what the reorganization consisted in; who were the subcontractors mentioned in the MacMillan report as having delayed production.

"Delays from July to November, 1940, delays from November to July, 1941," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

"The people of Canada have a right to demand that these delays shall no longer exist because there will be no delay in the march of Hitlerism."

Mr. Diefenbaker also asked for terms of a report made by E. B. Breech on aircraft production. He said Munitions Minister Howe had denied there was a written report but stated Mr. Breech's views were embodied in the MacMillan report. If so, said Mr. Diefenbaker, the house was entitled to know what Mr. Breech did report.

FORT WILLIAM OUTPUT

Mr. Diefenbaker concluded his address by saying that "the period of trial and error" must be over after 18 months of war. Production of munitions, particularly of aircraft, must be speeded up. If changes were necessary they should be carried out "ruthlessly and with determination."

Daniel Mclvor (Lib., Fort William), said Hurrican planes were being produced in Fort William at an increasing rate. Production for the week ended March 1 was 18 and the factory was one of the most efficient in Canada.

John R MacNicol (Con. Toronto-Davenport), urged that the prime minister should not doubt the sincerity of opposition members, nor the sincerity of the press.

Mr. MacNicol read editorials criticizing the war effort, from a number of newspapers and said he could not see why the prime minister should display "heat" over them.

Dr. H. R. Fleming (Lib., Humboldt), commenting on the recent suggestion that Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former prime minister, be asked to come back from England to head an aircraft inquiry commission, said that after the 1935 elections "the Conservatives virtually threw him overboard sand that is why Mr. Bennett is not now in this country."

Mr. Fleming said many of the "dollar-a-year" men aiding the government were a "detriment" to the war effort. He criticized the attitude of Mr. Howe and high officials of the munitions department, claiming they kept silent while rumors circulated creating uneasiness in the public mind when a little information would have cleared the air.

Mr. Fleming said no effort had been made to establish industry in Saskatchewan. Many skilled men were out of work there and if they came east in search of jobs they were told they were too old.

If the government would establish industry in the west the people there would meet every call upon them.

"I cannot see why we should have prosperity on the banks of the Rideau and not on the banks of the Saskatchewan," he said.

Dr. Herbert Bruce (Con., Toronto-Parkdale) said he was sorry Mr. Howe had not tabled the whole of the report submitted recently by H. R. Macmillan, of Vancouver, chairman of the Wartime Requirements Board. Mr. Howe had told the house the information about plan production contained in the report was confidential.

Dr. Bruce said this refusal gave rise to suspicion that there was "some other motive" for not tabling the whole report.

"Production of tanks is in a hopeless muddle," Dr. Bruce charged. "Surely it will help the enemy more to know we have fallen down badly on such a vital product as tanks than to know we are making good progress on guns."

Dr. Bruce said one of the best contributions Mr. Howe could make would be "to divorce munitions production from politics." He expressed belief Mr. MacMillan was an able public servant but was being hampered in his efforts.

BASED ON FORECASTS

Munitions Minister Howe, next speaker in the debate, said he wondered if the type of criticism coming from the opposition was constructive. Speakers based their criticism on forecasts he made last July, based on the best information available then.

"I certainly don't intend to make any more forecasts in this house," he said.

The criticism also consisted largely of a reading of newspaper editorials.

"I say this for the press, they do their best to get actual information," said Mr. Howe.

He said he wondered if any opposition members risked getting their clothes dirty by visiting munitions plants to see things for themselves.

Dr. Bruce said he had visited plants at Hamilton and Malton, Ont.

Then why not tell the house about it?" asked Mr. Howe.

"Why not say whether what you saw was a good show or a bad show, instead of reading newspaper editorials and old speeches from Hansard?"

The minister said this was probably the one occasion of the session when members could get any information they wanted by question and answer on munitions production. He was ready to answer all questions to the best of his ability.

MEMBER URGES PENSIONS FOR ALL SOLDIERS

New Democracy Leader Blackmore Says Present Bill Disgrace

OTTAWA, March 7. — (CP)— Pensions for every man who enlists in the Canadian armed service could and should be paid so that veterans might be removed from competition in the labor and production market, John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, Thursday declared in the House of Commons.

Speaking in debate on a bill to amend the Pensions Act Mr. Blackmore said the measure was "cheese paring and restrictive," that it was a disgrace to Canada. The measure was given second reading and sent to that committee.

He said there was still want and privation among veterans of the First Great War and conditions would be worse after the present conflict. The bill made no provision for improving the situation.

"This act is designed to perpetuate the abomination into another generation," Mr. Blackmore declared.

NO ACT ADEQUATE

Pensions Minister Mackenzie said no pensions act was ever adequate but improvements were being made all the time by friendly co-operative effort of all parties of the house.

The pensions bill makes statutory certain orders - in - council which were passed to extend provisions of the act to those serving in the present war, and makes other amendments which will be threshed out in a special committee of the house set up for that purpose.

Afterwards the House turned in consideration of Finance Minister Ilsley's $1,700,000,000 war appropriation bill resolution and heard from John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) a suggestion every corporation working on war orders should be required to submit its records for government examination on demand.

During the pensions debate several members, representative of all parties, criticized the measure and expressed fears its provisions would make it even more difficult for an ex-service man to establish his pension claim.

RIGHTS RETAINED

Mr. Mackenzie said there was no clause in the bill which took away any of the rights or provisions ex-servicemen now enjoy, except that appeal boards are reduced from three members to two. If there was any great objection to that clause it could be amended.

Mr. Blackmore said the bill was "conceived in an atmosphere of veneration" and "ignores the fundamental principle that whatever is physically possible is financially possible."

There were many veterans of the last war still unemployed and in want. Many of those who now are in the army were suffering want and privation before they enlisted.

"I ask how on earth these men are going to support themselves when they come back."

"There was plenty of money to equip these men for war. There must be plenty of money to support them after the war."

There were "countless numbers" of veterans of the First Great War who were unable to obtain employment, who were unable to sell the product of their labor and who were constantly on the verge of bankruptcy, Mr. Blackmore said.

"This act is designed to perpetuate that abomination into another generation," he declared.

"Why not give a pension to all men who serve? Why not remove them from competition for work and production unless they choose to go into that competition?

"That thought may startle the people."

Mr. Blackmore said that when the men come back they and the great industrial system built up during the war should be put to work to produce and distribute goods to those who could use them.

"If this government cannot design a system of distribution I say shame on it and its supporters.

"This bill is a disgrace to Canada and an insult to the members of this house."

Howard Green (Con.-Vancouver South) told the house the amendments involved a "tightening up" on the rights of men in the armed forces.

"I can see in many of its sections the very deft touch of departmental officials," he said.

The Vancouver member, speaking on second reading of the bill which is designed to bring the act up to date, objected to a provision that pension rights for men serving in Canada arose only if death or disability was due to his military or other services. He said this would make pensions for men injured or killed while serving in Canada practically impossible.

VOICES PROTEST

Mr. Green protested against the clause in the act requiring that application for pension must be made within seven years from the time disability was incurred. If that had been applicable to soldiers in he first Great War all veterans would have been cut off from opportunity to obtain pensions in 1925. It was still possible for veterans of the last war to apply and there was pressure to extend the time beyond the present limit, which expires next year.

The proposed amendments did not meet the requests which were being made in many quarters for an extension of the provisions for widows and wives of pensioners, Mr. Green said.

The amendment reducing appeal boards to two members instead of three was criticized by Mr. Green, particularly because of the additional clause providing that if the two-maan board disagreed a third man would be called in to produce a majority and reach a decision. This third man would not have the evidence or examined the applicant.

"The whole tendency of this measure is to be a little tougner than before with Canadians who should receive the most consideration at the present time," Mr. Green said.

J. G. Turgeon (Lib., Caribou), said it was a matter for satisfaction that the present pension minister (Hon. Ian Mackenzie) was one who for years had interested himself in the problems of ex-service men.

Victor Quelch (N.D., Acadia), said he hoped there would be no question about providing money in connection with pensions legislation this session. When the country was spending billions for war it could afford enough to meet its responsibilities to the soldiers.

CANADA MAKES 14 DIFFERENT TYPES OF GUN

Anti-Aircraft Weapons Of Most Modern Design Included

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)— H. J. Carmichael, joint director-general of munitions production, disclosed Thursday night that 14 types of guns and 10 types of carriages or mountings are "being produced, or to be produced very shortly," in Canadian plants.

Expressing appreciation and gratitude for the "splendid effort and co-operation" of Canadian labor in production of wartime necessities, he said: "We know we have the fullest and keenest support of all those engaged on armament work."

Mr. Carmichael spoke over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS

"We are going to manufacture in Canada two types of anti-aircraft guns of the most modern design the world knows. . . . The Germans avoid areas where these guns are as they would poison, or else they fly at an altitude which makes accurate bombing practically impossible." Barrels already are being produced and entire guns will be manufactured by October of this year.

"Two types of anti-tank guns will be manufactured in Canada." On one type delivery is scheduled for April, and carriages by June. The second type is scheduled for delivery in October.

"Two types of field guns are being manufactured and the first complete gun with carriage will be produced the latter part of this month." With maximum production expected before the end of the year.

MORTARS MANUFACTURED

"Three types of mortars are being produced. One is in production now. . . . The second type goes into production in June and the third in September."

"Four types of naval guns are to be produced and four types of mountings. The larger naval guns with their mountings will be produced early next year. The smaller type naval guns will be in production by July or August.

"Twin mountings for naval guns will start production in the latter half of 1941. This is probably the most intricate piece of mechanism from a gun standpoint that will be produced in Canada."

Mr. Carmichael said that in regard to ammunition, "we are turning out fuses, and shells and cartridge cases and primers in their hundreds of thousands. Small arms ammunition is being made by the millions.

"Arrangements have already been made to send to the United Kingdom, complete filled rounds ready for immediate use in the guns they are suited for."

In this branch of production, Mr. Carmichael said, "We are geared up so that the maximum requirements that now are known will be fully met.

CAN BE DOUBLED

"Should it be necessary to double this requirement Canada has the facilities and ability to meet the obligation."

During the last war Canada produced no ordnance, heavy, medium or light guns or Howitzers, or similar weapons, except Ross rifles and two-inch aiming rifles.

He contrasted that with what has been undertaken in the present war.

"In a plant authorized last August we have undertaken the manufacture of the most modern rifle," he said. "It will be in production the latter part of this year on a very substantial quantity basis. This plant will work night and day and it will reach a production of 30 rifles an hour."

He said the "much-discussed" Bren gun program is "considerably ahead of schedule." The quantities required were 10 times the original estimate.

LARGEST IN WORLD

Combined with two other types of automatic guns, he said, the plant (John Inglis Co., Ltd., Toronto), will have a total output of 97,500 a year, which will give it the largest production of any automatic gun plant in the world."

"An additional plant will be in operation in 1942," Mr. Carmichael said. It would have an ultimate capacity of 50,000 machine guns a year.

As an idea of the magnitude of the Canadian small arms program, he said as far as he could find out, the United States program does not anticipate production greater than 25,000 units a year from any of several plants now in production or being constructed. "Ours will soon be producing 147,500," he said.

Screen Actress Gives Airedale To U.S. Soldier

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 7.—(AP)—Private Everett Scott of Fort Ord was presented with an Airedale puppy by Canadian-born screen actress Deanna Durbin Thursday to take the place of his faithful dog "Laddie," which recently died of lonesomeness after his master entered military service.

"I don't know what I'll call him," said the Kansas farm boy as he thanked the actress, who comes from Winnipeg, "but I won't call him Laddie—I want to save that name for my best pal."

Then he added: "I guess I'll just call him Mickey."

It was a big day for the youthful soldier. He not only made a special train trip here from Fort Ord, near San Francisco, to receive the dog as a present from his favorite screen actress, but he was taken on a tour of a movie studio for the first time.

Laddie died and was given a simple military funeral after being flown to Camp Ord from Kansas in the hope that sight of his master would help him to recover from his grievance.

LIGHT PURCHASES ON GRAIN MARKET MAINTAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG, March 7—(CP)—Overshadowed by brisk cash wheat operations, trading in the wheat futures pit on Winnipeg grain exchange today was confined to light purchases by mills and interests which usually represent United States houses. Final futures quotations were ¼ cent higher, May wheat at 77½ and July 79⅛ cents a bushel.

A strong tone at Chicago where wheat prices gained more than a cent on lively short covering, was chiefly responsible for the firm trend here as hedging pressure proved heavier than usual. There were indications of a small export business in Canadian wheat but no figure could be confirmed.

In the cash wheat market, shippers and exporters were credited with buying approximately 3,000,000 bushels of Nos. 2 and 3 northern for movement from the lakehead at the opening of navigation. Price spread on these grades improved a little on the transactions.

BELGIAN URGES COUNTRY JOIN BRITISH EMPIRE

LONDON, March 7—(CP)—Camille Huysmans, former speaker of the Belgian chamber of deputies, recommended today Belgium ask to be admitted to the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Huysmans, chairman of the labor and socialist international, said "in unity, and only in unity, will be found the strength to keep the aggressor permanently at bay."

"Belgium should ask to be admitted to the British Commonwealth, and I know that there are statesmen of other smaller European nations who are thinking similarly."

Member's Status Declines States Dr. H. R. Fleming

OTTAWA, March 7—(CP)—Dr. H. R. Fleming (Lib., Humboldt) feels that status of the member of parliament has declined.

"Once upon a time a letter of recommendation from a member of parliament meant something," he told the House of Commons Thursday night, "but today, to be recommended by a member of parliament, even for a country post office position, would immediately lead to the possibility of being turned down. It would be a handicap.

"The only thing a member can do is to recommend that the applicant go to some police officer or someone of that kind, because we recognize that after all a member of parliament cannot give letters of recommendation to any of his constituents.

"I should like to know who should be more qualified than members of parliament, those who have been elected by the will of the people, to give letters of recommendation?"

8 YUGOSLAVIANS HELD IN PLOT TO BLOW UP SHIPS

SPLIT, Yugoslavia, March 7.—(AP)—Eight persons were arrested here today and charged with being involved in a plot to dynamite German and Italian ships plying between Yugoslavia and Italy.

Explosives were said to have been found in the prisoners' homes. The arrests followed an investigation of the explosions of the 1,400-ton freighter Xenia Feb. 26 while it was carrying cement to Italy.

(The original report said the vessel exploded and went down just after arriving at the small Yugoslav port of Stobbrece loaded with bauxite.)

Among the prisoners, it was said, were a member of the Yugoslav national party and a naval captain.

To See Eden

CAIRO, March 7.—(AP)—Tewfik Souedy Bey, foreign minister of Iraq, arrived here Thursday, presumably to see the British foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, and other British officials.

HEAVY SEIZURE OF SUPPLIES IS CLAIM OF JAPS

HONG KONG, March 7.—(AP)—Japanese troops who landed along the Kwangtung coast have seized vast quantities of material, including gasoline, salt and rice, Japanese reports said today.

Central (Chinese) News estimated only about 1,000 Japanese troops had been landed at Yeungkong, the same number at Shuitung and about 2,000 at Lichow. Japanese reports had said troops landed at six points.

A Japanese communique listed Japanese casualties at three killed and six wounded in fighting in the area thus far and claimed the Chinese had abandoned 390 dead.

The Japanese claimed they had seized 11,865 drums of gasoline, 3,120 drums of vegetable oil, 449 drums of wood oil, 1,100 bags of cement, 9,000 bags of manganese, 115 tons of steel, 3,000 bags of salt and quantities of sugar, rice and cotton.

CONTRIBUTION BY STATESMEN TOLD TO CLUB

Judge O'Connor, Dr. Dyde Tell History Of Great Men

The contribution of Canada's two great statesmen, Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfred Laurier, to the building of Canada and strengthening of the Empire ties, must be cherished at the present time, members of the Robertson Men's club were told at a meeting held Thursday night in Robertson United church.

Speakers were Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor, who spoke on Sir Wilfred Laurier and Dr. W. S. Dyde, who spoke on Sir John A. Macdonald. Frank Pike, president of the club, was chairman and special guests were His Honor, Lieut.-Gov. J. C. Bowen and Hon. Chief Justice Horace Harvey.

SKETCHES LIFE

Mr. Justice O'Connor sketched the life of Sir Wilfred, stating that he was born 100 years ago last November 25 at St. Lin, Quebec; went to school at New Glasgow; studied Presbyterian settlement, . . college at L'Assomption and graduated in law from McGill university.

He was first elected to parliament in 1871 and suffered his first personal defeat in 1878 when the Roman Catholic church opposed his policies. He was returned the following year, became leader of the opposition in 1887 and prime minister in 1895, his government holding office for 15 years, the longest continuous term of any Canadian administration.

He became prime minister when he opposed the "School Bill" which was brought forward to quash Manitoba's edict abolishing separate schools.

DIAMOND JUBILEE

In 1897 he was Canada's representative at Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee and in the procession was received with more enthusiasm than anyone else except the queen. He was knighted during those celebrations.

In 1911 he was defeated when Quebec charged him with too much Imperialism and the rest of Canada with insufficient loyalty on the reciprocity issue. He was again defeated in 1916 on conscription and died in February, 1921.

"The body of Sir Wilfred Laurier was laid to rest with the great of the earth," Mr. Justice O'Connor concluded, "but his spirit passed out into the golden sunshine of the land he loved, to be an inspiration to all Canadians so long as chivalry, courtesy and high achievement are prized among men."

Giving a brief biography of Sir John, Dr. Dyde outlined his main aims and achievements as the preservation of Canada's connection with the Mother Country and the formation of the Dominion of Canada through the confederation of the provinces.

He spoke of Sir John's broad humanity and large-heartedness, his ability to appreciate all types and classes of people.

HISTORIC FIGURE

"Today we need to remind ourselves of Sir John A.'s achievements," Dr. Dyde said. "He is an historic figure, it is true, but he is much more—as chief of the Fathers of Confederation, his attitude to Canada then is an example, a guide, even a warning to us here and now in the face, not perhaps of active opposition, but at least of cool indifference to the fate of the colonies. He made the Canada of today possible and helped more than any other single person to mould the British Empire of today.

"It would be nothing short of a calamity if we failed to carry on."

Golden Grain To Pour Aid For War Savings: Rural Pledges Climb

A golden store of wheat from Northern Alberta farms will be poured into elevators in aid of Canada's war effort as soon as road conditions permit, H. A. Craig, chairman in charge of rural organization in the war savings drive, stated Friday.

Late at getting organization work completed owing to the severity of the weather and bad road conditions through snow and ice, district committees are now actively canvassing and with splendid results, stated Mr. Craig.

These committees are receiving the utmost co-operation from farmers in every district," Mr. Craig stated, "and I am confident that the returns from rural Alberta will be as great as that afforded Canada's war effort by residents of the cities and towns."

An instance of the co-operation from farmers given by Mr. Craig was the case of a canvasser in the Municipal District of Sturgeon, who turned in 24 bank pledges aggregating $900.

BIG SALES

From the northern settlement of Dawson Creek comes the report to the central committee that since the inception of the war savings plan sales through banks in the territory have exceeded the $9,000 mark, and that during February $2,780 of war savings certificates were purchased.

In the Peace Coupe territory sales since the sale of certificates started have amounted to $2,865, with $880 being sold in February.

Although the campaign in the Millet district is only just starting more than $1,650 has been pledged already, and committee men are confident that this territory will have a showing comparable with any in Canada.

KEEN TO HELP

In reporting the sales the chairman of the district campaign stated that the canvass had not thoroughly started owing to adverse road and weather conditions, but that all farmers contacted were keen to do all possible to help Canada's war effort." There will be a constant stream of farmers drawing wheat to elevators and taking war savings certificates in payment, this official stated.

Sales and pledges during the February campaign in the Leduc territory netted over $6,000, and there will be a considerable increase in this monthly pledge total before the territory canvass is completed.

"39 years ago when I was in my teens back on the farm—": the Premier launched on a story. "Did you say 30 years ago", Mr. Duggan asked. "Over thirty", the Premier laughed, adding rapidly.

• • •

You mustn't confuse money reform with monetary reform or you'll be at sea and feel queer, the Premier explained. The Premier should know that you can feel queer at sea even without monetary reform.

• • •

• • •

It is understood that the new amendments to the Change of Name Act are not for the purpose of altering the name of "Fountain Pen Money" to "Monetary Reform."

• • •

In discussing the effect of the proposed amendment to the Unearned Increment Tax Act, Calgary's James Mahaffy said he would assume he had sold a farm for $20,000 way back when, but had only been paid $10,000 for it. Since it will all temporary, Mr. Mahaffy at least didn't lose any money on his farm deal.

• • •

• • •

R. E. Ansley of Leduc, was back at his desk yesterday looking a bit wobbly after a bat of flu. It was noticed when he first disappeared from view that maybe the International Bankers had got him.

From The Gallery

By STAN ROSS

If we're forced to fight with bows and arrows we will, says A. E. Fee. "But this is a machine gun age." The member from Sedgewick must have forgotten that they used bows and arrows last week in the British African campaign. He must be an old fashioned Indian.

• • •

Mr. Fee declared luxuries should be stopped at the factory and not by taxes. He declared banks shouldn't make money out of financing the war. And he insisted that Mr. King should remove the bank's monopoly on finance.

• • •

N. B. James was feeling discouraged at the Dominion's lack of understanding of financial methods for carrying on the war. He'll probably get used to it in time.

• • •

The member for Edmonton declared that if all the money in the Dominion were used up, the war would still be carried on. Then they'd probably adopt the methods suggested by Social Credit!

• • •

"I feel my appeal to the opposition has fallen to the ground," the Premier said on rising to ask unanimous support for his War Savings resolution. How true, Mr. Premier, how true.

• • •

The Premier has a high regard for D. M. Duggan's ability but he's afraid the member from Edmonton is fossilized in his opposition to monetary reform. A frozen asset, I suppose.

• • •

"It was laissez-faire that wrecked—or rather left Great Britain where she is and ruined France," the Premier said. "What's wrong with Britain," Mr. Duggan wanted to know. "Nothing now," the Premier said. "But she had a bad time getting in shape."

• • •

After describing the opposition for a time, Mr. Aberhart said he hoped they didn't think him mean. "That's all right," J. J. Bowlen replied, "We didn't take you seriously. And they didn't. Eighteen votes worth.

• • •

The Savings Certificate resolution was passed, but 18 voted against it. Angus Morrison voted with the government. (NOTICE: For the purpose of repetition, it will be hereafter assumed that Mr. Morrison voted with the government unless the contrary is stated.)

• • •

"If anyone has taken more dirt than me—let him stand up," the Premier challenged.

• • •

The Premier said he was very sorry that Mr. Page had been offended at his pre-election remarks. In fact he was sorry if he had offended any of the opposition. It's a fact. Cross my heart.

• • •

Calgary's Andy Davison shouldn't have tried digging up the old injunction, the premier said. Just for the moment he'd forgotten the name for digging up dead bodies, he added. "Are you suggesting the insurgents are dead", Mr. Davison wanted to know. Calgary's Fred Anderson hurriedly felt his pulse.

• • •

Social Credit is just one big happy family, the Premier explained. And every family has its squabbles. But who does the spanking?

• • •

The opposition had cancelled a meat trap in their first Savings Certificate resolution which they might have used to belittle the Alberta's war effort assistance, the Premier said. And then when they urged him to drop the whole matter they were ambushing him again. What this province needs apparently, is a closed hunting season on Premiers.

• • •

"39 years ago when I was in my teens back on the farm—": the Premier launched on a story. "Did you say 30 years ago", Mr. Duggan asked. "Over thirty", the Premier laughed, adding rapidly.

• • •

You mustn't confuse money reform with monetary reform or you'll be at sea and feel queer, the Premier explained. The Premier should know that you can feel queer at sea even without monetary reform.

• • •

• • •

It is understood that the new amendments to the Change of Name Act are not for the purpose of altering the name of "Fountain Pen Money" to "Monetary Reform."

• • •

In discussing the effect of the proposed amendment to the Unearned Increment Tax Act, Calgary's James Mahaffy said he would assume he had sold a farm for $20,000 way back when, but had only been paid $10,000 for it. Since it will all temporary, Mr. Mahaffy at least didn't lose any money on his farm deal.

• • •

• • •

R. E. Ansley of Leduc, was back at his desk yesterday looking a bit wobbly after a bat of flu. It was noticed when he first disappeared from view that maybe the International Bankers had got him.

THE QUESTION

THE ANSWERS

CECIL WOOD, C.P.R. press gallery operator: No, I believe it should be carried on under certain limitations. I think that a time limit should be set on speeches and the whole debate should not exceed a fixed time. I think opposition and government members should get together as to the number of speakers and that they should confine addresses more strictly to matters concerning the house and not wander too far afield from their own sphere of activities.

• • •

FRED KENNEDY, press gallery representative: Yes. I think it should be abolished and I can recall the late Mr. Justice A. A. McGillivray, then leader of the provincial Conservative party, advocating it on the floor of the house. The majority of members contribute little to the debate and in large measure the address is rehashing of old campaign material or material that has already been served on other occasions.

• • •

LES WOORIDGE, C.P.R. messenger service: Yes, I think it should be continued. It is interesting to me and, of course, the longer that debate goes on and the longer the session lasts, the better it is for me in a material way.

ENTHUSIASM IS SHOWN DURING RECRUIT DRIVE

Young Alberta men in rural communities are displaying a ready willingness to serve their country, according to Maj. J. Howard Gainor, M.C., district recruiting officer, M.D. No. 13, who has just completed a swing around several communities in the territory surrounding this district.

He was at Stony Plain Thursday where he found a great deal of enthusiasm for service. Earlier in the week he visited Wainwright and Chauvin, where he met with an encouraging response, attesting no fewer than 30 men at these two points.

He said that many men—some of whom failed to pass the medical board—had come from a long distance to enlist. Some had come from Bibalone and other points.

The drive for recruits under way throughout the whole province has met with fine results, he said.

Recruiting at the Prince of Wales Armory, under Lt. Col. Allan H. Elliott, officer commanding No. 1 Sub-Depot, likewise has been up to standard and many men of fine physical type continue to offer themselves for service. There are still some vacancies for mechanics and Lt. Col. Elliott will be glad to interview them.

War Brings Problems Social Worker Says: Praises City Project

While war industries and recruiting have reduced relief, the war has brought its own problems for social agencies, it was stated here Friday by Martin M. Cohn, Toronto, president of the Canadian Association of Social Workers.

Mr. Cohn, who is also executive director of the United Jewish Welfare Fund of Toronto, is making a tour across Canada in his capacity as head of the Social Workers' Association. He will address the Edmonton Council of Social Agencies at a meeting at 4 p.m. in the Y.W.C.A.

Mr. Cohn praised Edmonton's Community Chest movement, stating that the Community Chest was the ideal organization for welfare work.

"It must be remembered that a community chest is not just a federation of various agencies for joint fund raising," he said. "It is a community effort and the measure of its success is hard work. It means foot power and lung power. You must have plenty of canvassers and they must be willing to wear out plenty of shoe leather."

PRESS HELP

He was pleased at the readiness of western newspapers to give "understanding reporting of social work."

Social agencies, he said, have many new problems as a result of the war, such as keeping contact with families of men who are overseas on active service.

In many cases, we are asked to contact and investigate the circumstances of families requiring the dependents' allowance. Sometimes, also, soldiers ask us to visit their families from time to time and let them know whether all is well.

The agency is also continuing their work among the 187,000 old age pensioners in Canada, the 35,000 children who receive the 20,000 mothers who are on mothers' allowances.

Snow-Melting Plant Proposed For Winter Street Cleaning

Dumping of snow on the Boyle street baseball grounds has been stopped, stated John Hodgson, city commissioner, when petitioned by residents against this practice came before the civic bylaws committee Thursday for consideration. The committee recommended that the question of snow and ice removal be studied thoroughly with a view to effecting economies.

Ald. Sidney Parsons urged that the city commissioners investigate the possibility of installing a wood-burning plant to melt the snow and ice, the run-off being turned into city sewers. Ald. Parsons said the cost of such plant would be approximately $2,000. If could't be operated by one man at a time, and added that such a plant was operating successfully in Sweden.

Commissioner John Hodgson said removal of snow and ice cost $8,000 in January, and that the annual revenue from 12,000 lots was $32,000 in a few years.

Recently city council received a petition from more than 100 residents of the Boyle street district asking for discontinuance of the practice of dumping snow and ice on the baseball park. The Edmonton Trades and Labor Council also asked that the practice be discontinued.

Oliver School Students Given Thanks For Aid Sent Overseas

A recent donation from the pupils to the people of Coventry, England, amounting to $20 was acknowledged in a letter from J. A. Mosely, mayor of that battered metropolis.

In his letter Mayor Mosely said: "Such gifts as yours coming from all parts of the British empire indeed, of the world, have brought great comfort, cheer and encouragement to those who have lost their homes and possessions as a result of enemy air raids. Please convey to all who helped, my thanks and deep appreciation on behalf of Coventry." The official receipt also conveys thanks on behalf of the Mayor of Coventry's fund for air raid victims.

The other notes is from the Lord Mayor of Bristols War Services Council and it also thanks Miss Hueston for the students donation. Elliott, officer commanding No. 1 Sub-Depot, likewise has been up to $20 which means that the students have altogether dispatched overseas about $40.

Money is raised by the students through the collection of coat-hangers and newspapers and also through direct cash donations to banks placed in each room of the Oliver school.

EDMONTON IS PUBLICIZED AS TRADE CENTRE

The article, several pages long is entitled "Edmonton, Alberta District," and is illustrated with photographs of the legislative buildings, the high level bridge, with the University of Alberta in the background, and of farming scenes in the district.

War Savings Honor Roll

Putting pledges in within two of the 300 mark when nine more Edmonton firms and institutions received the coveted Gold Honor Award, canvassers are now setting themselves an objective of 350 firms whose employees have pledged themselves 100 per cent to the monthly purchase of war savings certificates through the payroll savings plan.

"There are a number of firms approaching the 100 per cent mark," stated Harvey Harrison, chairman of the employer-employee canvass, "and I am confident they will be joining the Gold Honor Award roll within the next few days."

Many institutions are yet to be heard from, while the returns from the provincial government and civic departments are yet to be made. Many of these departments have achieved the 100 per cent pledge from their employees.

Firms and institutions qualifying for the award Friday were:

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)—Names of 66 persons claiming Canadian nationality—including Maj.-Gen. Guy Carleton Jones, C.M.G.—who are reported held as civilians in enemy or enemy-occupied territory, were revealed Thursday by the Department of External Affairs.

Gen. Jones, director-general of the Canadian medical services from 1906 to 1917, was born in Halifax in 1864. He was awarded the C.M.G. for war services and retired in 1920

Only structural steel framework remains of the imposing trylon and perisphere which served as the theme of the New York World's Fair. Three-fourths of fair construction has been demolished.

ADMIRAL SEES NAZI ATTEMPT AT INVASION

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—Admiral John C. Tovey, commander-in-chief of the Home Fleet, Thursday told a Reuter's News Agency correspondent there is a "very real threat" of a German attempt to invade Britain.

He said he was confident it would be defeated if Britons took every precaution and prepared in every possible way

Admiral Tovey said that the new ships of the fleet are "extraordinarily efficient" and that new ideas "of great promise" are being adopted all the time

He admitted that the U-boat threat is "extremely serious," but said that he had "not the slightest doubt" Britain would be able to counter it

Roosevelt Says Congress Delay Slowing Up Aid

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(BUP) President Roosevelt said today that congressional delay in enacting the lend-lease bill inevitably will slow down delivery of war materials to embattle democracies

Emphasizing he merely was restating what he has been saying since the first of the year, Mr. Roosevelt said congressional delay may have no effect on immediate deliveries, but every day lost now will affect deliveries of assistance a little later on.

TURK MINISTERS REFUSE TO SEE NAZI WAR FILM

By DANA SCHMIDT

ANKARA, March 7—(BUP)—Turkey's cabinet members, it was learned today, declined an invitation by German Ambassador Franz Von Papen to attend a showing of the German war film, "Victory in the West."

The showing was attended, however, by prominent Turks and neutral diplomats except United States representatives.

U.S. Vessels For Britain Depends On Developments

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(AP)—Congress heard from a high official Thursday that the United States navy might be willing to let Britain have additional destroyers under certain circumstances.

The senate appropriations committee made public this testimony from Rear Admiral R. E. Ingersoll, assistant chief of naval operations, in response to a question as to whether any more warships should be transferred to the British navy:

"Today we might say no, but depending upon the situation six weeks from now or three weeks from now the answer might be yes."

$200,000 Damage When Fire Sweeps Railway Car Shops

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 7.—(CP)—Fire Chief Phillips estimated today that $200,000 damage was done when fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed the car shops of the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway here.

Loss included the main building and a quantity of equipment. Many cars in the shops for repairs as well as cars under construction were burned. One new passenger coach, a caboose, 11 pulpwood cars and coal cars were destroyed. A few buildings were saved.

Italian Command Says Bombers Hit British Warships

ROME, March 7.—(AP)—The Italian high command claimed today that Italian bombing planes attacked a strongly escorted British convoy in the eastern Mediterranean, hitting a cruiser, a destroyer and three merchant ships.

(Comment on the Italian claim was not available immediately in London.)

Italian planes also bombed a British air base in North Africa, the Daily war bulletin claimed, while German planes attacked marching columns and troop concentrations there.

Writer Believed To Be Canadian Held Under Defence Act

LONDON, March 7.—(CP)—Erland Echlin, former correspondent of News Weekly magazine and understood to be a Canadian, was detained at Brixton prison today under defence regulation 18b.

This regulation empowers the Home Secretary to make an order for the detention of anyone "of hostile origin or associations."

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID PREMIER BY MACDONALD

By PAT USSHER

LONDON, March 7—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill was termed "The high constable of the Tower of England" in a warm tribute by Malcolm MacDonald, high commissioner designate to Canada, to his political "boss" today.

Adapting a Churchillian phrase, he told a Canada club luncheon in a witty speech that "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to one man."

PRAISES AIR PLAN

Mr. MacDonald said North America is making a vital contribution to victory. United States, as the arsenal of democracy, was partnered by Canada's vigorous effort, where factories worked beyond the range of enemy bombers.

"It is not only materials we are getting from the dominions," declared the high commissioner designate. "Canada's young manhood is stepping into the fray."

Among other war activities "gathering tremendous momentum" in the Dominion, he stressed the Commonwealth air training plan, whose graduates will fly to Britain "like young eagles circling, pouncing upon and killing their wretched prey."

Victory assuredly will rest with the Empire's armies—"those pioneers of a brighter future"—and not with the Axis powers, "those bragging mimics of an old order"—tyranny.

DIGNITARIES ATTEND

He confessed he was leaving Britain with mixed feelings. "It would be a poor representative of Britain anywhere who had not got a passionate belief in this great year 1941 when no place in the wide world matters so greatly as this precious island."

The distinguished gathering included many cabinet ministers, prompting the chairman, Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, to comment that the "affairs of state of this country could very satisfactorily be conducted from this room."

Introducing the guest of honor, Mr. Massey said "we know Mr. MacDonald in Canada and we like him." He asserted the new high commissioner's spiritual home will be "somewhere on the lake of the woods, where there is a sort of transatlantic Lossiemouth."

Holes in the leaves of the tropical hurricane plant prevent it from being blown to shreds.

Mrs. V. Wright Is Hostess At Tea Thursday

Warm spring sunshine streaming through the wide windows in the drawing room of the Macdonald hotel on Thursday afternoon shone on a pleasant scene where Mrs. Victor Wright entertained at one of the most attractive teas of this season. Guests who called during the afternoon hours of four and six o'clock included the wives of members of the Alberta legislature and other women prominent in social circles in the city.

The wide room was tastefully graced at either end with huge bowls of Hennery bluebirds and Guernsey daffodils, the latter from Vancouver, from Mrs. Austin Taylor. Mrs. Wright's sister, for the occasion.

Huge bowl of delicately shaded spring flowers, daffodils, iris and narcissi was placed at the entrance door where Mrs. Wright received her guests. For the occasion she chose a becoming hostess gown in the black crepe, with smart jacket to match. Sequins were used as trimming on her frock and jacket, and her hat was a wide-brimmed model in straw with a white flower at the crown.

Mrs. John Campbell Bowen, wife of the Provincial Secretary, Lieutenant-Governor, and Mrs. Francis Neal, her daughter, were among the guests. Mrs. Bowen chose a simple black afternoon gown with accessories, hat and slippers to match. Mrs. Neal was also in black. Her accessories were black and she wore furs.

Mrs. William Aberhart, wife of the premier of the province, and Mrs. J. Boyd McBride assisted the hostess with the reception of the guests.

SHARING HONORS

The tea-table, laid in soft ecru lace, was centered with a bowl of cherry-red tulips. Mrs. Gordon C. Gray and Mrs. J. Ivan Mackay shared in honors.

Serviteurs passing tea were Mrs. J. J. Anderson, Miss Sylvia Evans, Miss Barbara Nish, Miss Barbara Mitchell, Miss Alison McBride and Miss Olive Duff.

Patrons Throng Empire Theatre For Performance Of "The Bat"

JOHANN STRAUSS' gay and sparkling comic opera, "The Bat," was presented for the pleasure and delight of Edmonton audiences in its initial performance in the Empire theatre on Thursday evening. Present to greet the presentation, which is this year's production of the Empire Operatic Company, was a capacity house who, through sustained and enthusiastic applause, manifested their pleasure in beholding it. The opera will be given on Friday and Saturday evenings and on Saturday afternoon.

Light lines that were easy to follow, gay speeches and speeches-in-song, melodic tunes and gay, flipping waltz tunes of the Vienna of past days, were combined into a most pleasant entertainment.

Telling in song and delightful tune, the story of a gay Viennese couple, the von Eisensteins, the plot gave scope for much acting as well as singing talent. Starred in the leading roles were several who well-known to Edmonton audiences and several who are new.

School Children In Canada Find Appreciation Of Canadian Culture Through Study Of Art

By GLADYS ARNALD

OTTAWA, March 7.—(CP)—Canadian school children whose artistic diet a few years ago consisted mainly of reprints of the "old masters" are today studying Canadian artists from beautiful reproductions supplied by the National Gallery at Ottawa.

Interest in Canadian artists has grown throughout the Dominion until nearly 20,000 colored reproductions were sold in 1939-1940, Director H. O. McCurry reports. Of these several thousands have been large, finely mounted pictures. More than 15,000 were small reproductions suitable for children's art books.

Even in districts, judging from the demand, are more interested in art than people of any other part of Canada, Mr. McCurry said. In many of the small schools dotting Saskatchewan and Alberta are to be found "The Jack Pine", an interpretation of the Canadian mood. "In dollar, Mr. McCurry receives the less-any-school-in-such relationships," the director said.

But the boys and girls know this masterpiece is by a Tom Thomson and they are proud that he is a Canadian painter.

In order to aid art teachers the National Gallery has compiled several series of pamphlets done in attractive folders in which a story of a picture is written, the biographical details of the artists and instructions for teaching the fine points to children.

The lessons are planned in two series for each picture. One series is for public school pupils and the second for high school students. With the purchase of any five large reproductions, mounted on fine art paper at a price of one dollar, the buyer receives the lesson-series free of charge. Reproductions suitable for the children, exclusively for the use of which may be had at two cents each for a series of 10 or 15 cents per series when ordered in lots of 100.

A typical lesson is number two in series one. The picture is Arthur Lismer's "The September Gale." The picture was painted in Georgian Bay, Lake Huron. The artist has attempted to express the character of the pine in the grip of an equinoctial storm.

Younger children, says Arthur Lismer, are more likely to understand pictures that are definite in form without the lyrical mistiness that is typical of a poetic imagination. The lesson plan should be simple and confined to encouragement of understanding of the subject.

VARIOUS STUDIES

Typical questions for the younger child include: "Where is Georgian Bay? Do you know anything about the trees, the islands or waterways? Can you describe it? How has the artist suggested a stormy scene? Why do the trees lean to the left?"

For pupils of high school age the artist says rhythmic or related movement may be studied; tone values, color, composition, the meaning of unity, design and form.

Eighteen Canadian artists have been reproduced in this way. They include such famous names as A. Y. Jackson, Lawren Harris, Arthur Lismer, Tom Thomson, Clarence Gagon and others.

At the same time the British and art. Pictures by Sir Joshua Reynolds, Paolo Veronese and others in the gallery have been reproduced and lessons based on them in the same way.

Canada's wheat flour production in 1940 was the highest in eight years.

John Buchan Statue Is Exhibited By Trade Commissioner

NEW YORK, March 7—(CP)—A bronze portrait bust of the late John Buchan by Suzanne Silvercruys, sculptor and lecturer of New York, is on exhibition in the office of Gordon Cole, Canadian trade commissioner, in Rockefeller Centre.

The bust is the property of Lady Tweedsmuir and was done from life in Government House, Ottawa, about six months before the Governor-General's death. It is the artist's conception of John Buchan, the author, in his scholastic robes and gives an entirely different impression of the man than one sees in Miss Silvercruys's portrait bust of him as the Governor-General of Canada in his be-medalled uniform.

Viennese Waltz Popular and Fun

The gay, the charming Viennese Waltz! You want to be at your best in this newly popular dance, not one of the girls who just blunder along, losing glamor at each step.

Practise at home with simple diagrams. Then you'll whirl about gracefully with your partner—skirts, coat tails flying—and you may be sure the stag line will note your airy skill!

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

What used to be a sign of age is now a style. It is considered very chic to flaunt a "white feather" in your dark tresses—so don't be uprooting the gray hairs. They're not aging! Instead, concentrate on the four or five different spots on your figure which may pad your birthdays beyond all reason.

Take the chinline. It usually holds its own up to the age of thirty, but then it has a way of slipping fast. Years of working, reading, knitting and playing bridge with the head drooped or poked forward not only destroy the line of the throat and chin but also cause a little hump at the back of the neck. And that's another ageing sign.

BIGGEST FAVOR

The biggest favor any woman could do herself would be to cultivate the habit of pulling up with the muscles at the sides of the throat and holding the chin level—always. Don't let your head settle down on your breast bone. Stretch your neck muscles. Carry your head high. If the double chin is a subtraction of excess weight, diet and special exercise are in order.

Another spot where age tags your figure is the back of the upper arm. The young arm is firm and round and flabby arms, whether too fat or too thin, make you seem older. To keep the upper arms firm, do a few daily circling exercises which tone the triceps. Move the arms from the shoulder, keeping the elbows straight as you circle. Or swing the arms backward, shoulder level.

Of all the telltale signs of age, a portly midsection is the most abhorrent. A humpty-dumpy silhouette is accepted as evidence of middle age. In fact, it is called the middle-aged spread.

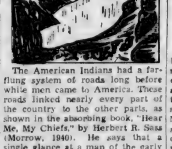

Age has nothing to do with it. Any woman who sits too much and exercises too little is bound to acquire a roll between waist and wishbone, to have a "tummy," and to thicken through the hips. The muscles in these areas are not used, so they become infiltrated with fat and the figure then looks heavy and settled.

Your looks suffer when you carry your head forward and let the upper arms go soft and flabby. Both your health and looks are affected when you take no exercise for the important muscles concerned in the middle-aged spread. It seems to be a good idea all around to see that the muscle groups in these age exaggerating areas get a small amount of conditioning exercise every day.

Women are not so silly as to want to keep right on looking sweet sixteen. But neither is there any point in looking several years older than warranted by one's birth certificate!

Your dietitian, Ida Jean Kain.

Debunker

The American Indians had a fairly flung system of roads long before white men came to America. These roads linked nearly every part of the country to the other parts, as shown in the absorbing book, "Bear Me, My Chiefs," by Herbert R. Seas (Morrow, 1940). He says that a simple glance at a map of the early Indian trails and roads would forever explode the idea that America was a trackless wilderness at that time.

In fact, a map of the present highway and railroad systems in America is pretty nearly a duplicate of the system of roads the Indians made. The Indian communications system became the foundation for the modern system with surprisingly little change.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

By the time a child is 5 he has acquired an elementary knowledge of the principle of mine and thine.

He knows what is his because his parents state repeatedly, "That is yours." The parent will explain her refusal to let the child have what belongs to her by saying, "No, that is Mother's. This is yours."

Such consistent repetition makes clear to the child that what is his can be done with as he pleases. What belongs to his parents must be asked for. He doesn't get it by strong-arm methods, or whining or crying, but only by their gracious permission when he asks for it.

The first stage of this lesson in mine and thine is to learn to ask for what does not belong to the child. The second stage is his understanding that even if a thing is his and he can refuse his permission for someone else to use it, he can also get supreme satisfaction out of sharing what he has with others. It is his and everyone recognizes his ownership. Because of that, it is the more satisfying to say, "I'm glad to let you use it."

Mrs. B. C.'s boy seems never to have learned the first of these principles of properly rights. "I have been complimented many times on what a well-behaved boy he is. But he can't seem to keep his hands off what belongs to someone else. When my back is turned he always is into something. He gets into a cake I am making, or messes up the baby's formula, or spreads tooth-paste all over the house. There is hardly a day but that something of this kind happens. This has been going on for two years. So far I have tried isolation and spanking and scolding, but he still does it."

It is rather confusing to determine the child's motives for such behavior. He may, at present, be jealous of your attentions to the baby. In a spirit of revenge he may want to aggravate you, and also he may want you to notice him. Mischief on his part gets your notice, when good behavior does not.

There is another aspect. He is 3½ years old and therefore capable of doing lots of things which you may deny him the privilege of doing. Because of his antagonism toward your prohibitions, he turns his need for activity into mischief. You can be a better judge of what is causing his behavior by being brutally frank about your attitudes and treatment of him. Perhaps to enlist his aid, to allow him to help, will keep him out of mischief. Perhaps, also, to be more thorough training in asking permission before he touches what does not belong to him.

You may have our leaflet, "Obedience and Punishment," by sending a three-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Eldred in care of Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Let's divide this music you have to commit up into daily units. And don't think about how much is ahead. Keep your thoughts on today's part."

Daughter: "I'll never get this all learned in time for the recital. See how much there is."

Mother: "It's high time you were worrying about it."

We render our children a great service when we help them learn the value of concentrating on today's task without worrying about tomorrow's.

Dorothy Dix Says:

One of the greatest wrongs that parents can do children is to bring them up with great expectations that they have no way of realizing, with tastes and habits that they cannot gratify; with ambitions they can never achieve. One of the commonest and most tragic illustrations of this is found in the families who live beyond their means; who maintain a handsome establishment; who give their children fine clothes, fine cars, fine trips, send them to expensive schools, and who lead them to look forward to a life of ease and luxury.

Then the father dies, or a depression comes, and the palace of great expectations in which the children have lived all their lives is smashed into smithereens, instead of inheriting a fortune, they inherit only debts and bills. They have been taught how to trade for profession by which they can support themselves. They have had desires cultivated in them that will be torment to them as long as they live because they cannot gratify them, and all people none are so miserable as those who have seen better days.

It is natural, of course, for fathers and mothers who love their children to want to indulge their every wish and give them the things they wish children have, but what cruel kindness it is to rear them in a soft, satin-padded cell in which they are destined to live in one that is hard and cold, and which calls for strength and grit instead of pampering.

Akin to this is the crime that parents commit who teach their children to think too well of themselves, and to believe that they have talents that they do not possess. The world is filled with failures because mother swelled little Johnny's and Minnie's heads so big while they were still in rompers that they were never willing to wear the size hats that nature designed for them.

All of us know girls who never married because their doting parents made them believe that their merely ordinary good looks were such superlative beauty and charm that the least they could expect for a husband was a millionaire.

And we know plenty of other women who are husbandless and childless because they are victims of false ideals of children. Mothers would not let them marry the honest young grocer who was the last stepping stone for himself, or the impecunious young doctor struggling to get a foothold in a big city, or the man whom they were in love.

She felt that because Mamie had a college education, or naturally curly hair, that she was such a wonder that she rated a brilliant marriage, and since the girls who are rich and famous are few not far between Mamie never married at all.

And it is parents who unwittingly wreck the lives of their children by making them believe that they are Heaven-sent geniuses when, in reality, they have only a ghost of a talent.

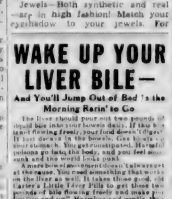

The proud old boast that every boy might some day be President must have been originated by parents. It is a grand slogan, but it is a lying one, and it is a pity to teach it to children because it raises such false hopes in their breasts. Not every boy can be president, nor a great editor, nor financier, nor can every girl make a great marriage, or be a cinema queen.

But every girl and boy can fill some respectable niche in the world. They can do good work and be useful citizens in their own spheres of activity.

And it is a pity that fathers and mothers do not spend more time helping their children to find their rightful places in life, instead of filling their heads with dreams that can never come true for them.

What To Do

Will you tell me how to have my maid answer the telephone correctly and also how my children should answer calls? Is it proper for the maid or the children to reply to the ring by saying, "Mrs. Brown's residence"?—Thank you.

MRS. A.B.K.

Answer—No, Mrs. Brown's residence sounds entirely too businesslike. Rather have the maid say pleasantly, "Good morning," or "Good evening," and then ask, "Would you like to speak to Mrs. Brown?"

In the case of the children for example, after the preliminary greeting the maid say, "This is Bob Brown; would you like to speak to my mother?" And by all means teach her and also the children to use a pleasant clear tone in speaking, never a gruff "Hello."

I am assuming that Mrs. Brown is a widow and that most of the adult calls are for her.

I.O.D.E. Chapter To Entertain At Party For Blind Citizens

Arrangements for the chapter's annual party in compliment to the blind persons of Edmonton were made when members of the Fort Augustus chapter, I.O.D.E., met in the Macdonald hotel this week. The party will be held sometime this month.

It was decided to supply four dozen pairs of pyjamas to patients in the soldiers' wing of the University hospital. Military hospitals in the city were visited during the past month and cigarettes and magazines distributed to 71 patients, the convener of work for the soldiers reported.

A substantial donation was voted to the Hospital Emergency Fund to furnish equipment of bombed hospitals in England. The war work convener reported that a number of knitted articles for the navy, army and the air force were turned in by the members during the month.

Empire Opera Company Scores In City Premiere Of The Bat: Will Be Repeated Two Nights

Its melodies known and loved the world over for 67 years, Johann Strauss' greatest comic opera, "The Bat," was given its local premiere Thursday night by the Empire Opera Company, under the auspices of the Edmonton Municipal Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. The performance was at the Empire theatre and will be repeated Friday and Saturday nights, with a matinee Saturday.

The perennial appeal of Strauss' lilting melodies and the meritorious cause in which the production was made—proceeds to war work — attracted practically a capacity audience.

In every way this was a worthy successor to the same organization's presentation of The Bartered Bride last year, when the company was known as The Opera Six.

Over the months The Bat has been in preparation, much has been written of the story and of the music. Both have stood the ravages of time and it is sufficient tribute to their merit that they have endured for 67 years. The story is humorous and charged with many amusing situations, while Strauss' incorporated in his score some of his most appealing melodies.

NEW STAR

If for no other reason, The Bat will be notable by reason of its discovery of a new singing star whose exhibition on the ranks of major artists will be most welcome. This discovery is none other than Shirley Meier who cast as Rosalinde. She was the standout member of the cast.

Her singing was clear, tonally true and appealing. The quality of her voice is admirable. Her acting, too, was on a high plane; her gestures and poise were all that could be desired, while she is bountifully endowed with good looks. She has been on the "way up" for the last couple of years and her progress has been sure and steady. She should be a valuable addition to local productions.

Aurline Tanner is another young singer who has been progressing considerably recently. She sang the role of Adele. Her acting was splendid and the coaching of one of the role to near-perfection, although she frequently tended to err on the question of insincerity.

James Sisks gave a well thought out and cleverly executed performance as Gaoler Frosch. Emerson Jim Richardson came into his own as a rare comic by giving a highly-performance as the Warden of the Jail. His work in Act III was exceptionally good.

FINEST NUMBERS

Vivian Jones as Prince Orlofsky made a distinctive picture as the wealthy young Russian and had the assignment of singing one of the finest numbers in the score. Jack Gish as Alfred the vocal teacher, exercised his extensive comedy gifts to good purpose and made the most of his various scenes.

Lin Jordan as Dr. Falke was responsible for much comedy and the scenes fluxing his fast exchanges were among the best of the show.

Isidore Gorinsky as Frosch, the turnkey, also burned a valuable cork screw to comedy ranks. It was difficult to reconcile this gay jailer with a serious young man who sat as a young man in the legislature as a U.F.A. member and made speeches on economic reform and better living conditions for all.

OTHER ROLES

In other roles the following were fully adequate: Dan Cameron as Blind, John Dodds as Dr. Bey, Wallace Ironmonger as Rentmeister, Bennett Gueston as Murnay, Fred Bartlett as Richard MacDonald as Violets to the Prince, Daphne Mackay as Melanie, Olga Pinkowski as Pauline, Helen Mazer as Felicia, Margaret Gaudin as Theodora Olga Maruszyk as Minne, Monica Mudry as Betsie, Marion Williams as Ida, and Norma Madill as Sabine.

High honors go to three members of the production staff. Atha Paul Andrews, the conductor, on whose shoulders devolved the heavy duty of keeping those on the stage and those in the pit working unitedly to a common end—which he did with success; Thomas W. Dalkin, the dramatic and stage director, to whose ingenuity and extensive experience goes credit for the high class production, and G. Alex Keyan, chorus director, for the splendid results achieved in the singing.

Much praise is due Ambrose Helowach, ballet master and choreographer for the striking effects obtained in his ballet numbers and the finely trained dancers who performed his work.

The whole performance moved along smoothly and seemed to be a success. Perhaps some cuts in some dialog, the faster end in the second act the action slowed down after the spirited opening. The whole lasted perhaps a trifle long but this is a prerogative exercised by most amateur efforts. The reception of the audience, especially those of Act III was superlative.

UTILITIES ARE AGAIN HEADED TOWARD RECORD

Edmonton's public utilities seem headed for another record-smashing year if the January figures are any indication of the progress these city owned enterprises will accomplish during 1941.

Revenue from the five utilities for January 1941 totalled $466,852.64, compared with $425,960.06 for the corresponding period last year, an increase of $40,617.58.

Operation and maintenance operations for the January 1941 period amounted to $257,917.44, compared with $217,766.33 for the same period last year. This is an increase in operation expenses of $40,151.21.

Surplus of revenue over operation costs was $208,600.20, compared with $208,138.83 last year. Net surplus for January 1941 after deducting capital charges reserves for maintenance and replacement and taxes amounted to $43,968.

Net surpluses of the different utilities were: Electric light, $14,530.59; power house, $19,179.18; telephone, $14,250.04; and waterworks, $1,667. Street railway deficit for the month was $5,663.63.

ELEVEN BILLS ARE ENDORSED IN COMMITTEE

Measures Stand Ready For Third Reading In House

Tackling the formidable series of 31 bills now on the order paper, members of the legislature Thursday got as far as the committee stage for the first time this session and passed no fewer than 11 bills clause by clause. They now stand ready for third reading. In addition progress was reported on three others, which will remain in committee for further discussion. Elected deputy speaker of the house earlier in the afternoon, Alfred J. Hooke, S.C. Rocky Mountain House, presided in committee.

Second reading was given to 17 bills and these are now ready for discussion in committee.

The house received two new bills, both of which were introduced by Premier William Aberhart. One is an amending bill to the Teachers' Retirement Fund Act. The other is a bill amending the Teachers' Professions Act, 1935.

BILLS REPORTED

Reported for third reading were the following bills: An Act to amend the Factories Act; an act to amend the Cemetery Act; an act to amend the Alberta Architects Act; an act to amend the District Courts Act; an act to amend the Pharmaceutical Association Act; an act respecting the regulation of geophysical operations and geological exploration; an act to amend the Department of Lands and Mines Act; an act to amend the Religious Societies Lands Act; an act to amend the Social Services Tax Act; an act to amend the Local Tax Arrears Consolidation Act, 1935; an act to amend the Lloydminster Municipal Amalgamation Act.

Progress was reported on the following: An act to amend the Alberta Evidence Act; an act to amend the Threshers Lien Act; an act to amend the Unearned Increment Tax Act.

H. J. Macdonald, K.C. Ind., Edmonton, during discussion of the Evidence Act measure, declared he was not certain that the proposed system of substituting photostatic copies for original documents would be satisfactory. The bill permits banks to discard old documents after pictures have been taken. The idea is that photostatic copies would require less storage space and would save banks building additions to house documents.

HELD OVER

Dishonesty or inefficiency might creep in, thought Mr. Macdonald. At the suggestion of J. C. Mahaffy, Ind., Calgary, the bill was held over. He felt that members from both sides of the house should discuss the matter to insure protection of both banks and customers.

Mr. Mahaffy, during discussions of the bill regarding unearned increment, said there were some serious objections to the change. He contended that if a person sold a farm for $20,000 and in subsequent action under the debt adjustment act, the figure was reduced to $10,000, the seller should not be obliged to pay the increment tax on the higher rather than the lower figure.

E. J. Martin, Ind., Peace River, during discussion on the threshers' lien measure, declared many farmers were not receiving pay before the liens fell due because many had been unable to market sufficient grain to balance threshing charges. These should be some provision for extension of liens to give farmers protection.

Sponsor of the bill, Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of municipal affairs and its purpose was to open threshers' records for examination.

DEPOSIT TO BE REFUNDED WHEN CONDITION MET

When conditions already made known are met, deposit of $200 made in 1937 in connection with recall proceedings in the Okotoks-High River constituency will be refunded, Premier William Aberhart informed the legislature Thursday. He made his statement in reply to a question by John Bromfield, Ind., Okotoks - High River.

Mr. Bromfield asked: "Is it the intention of the government to repay the $200 deposited with the clerk of the executive council by the petitioners in connection with the recall of Premier Aberhart for the Okotoks-High River constituency, under the Recall Act?"

The premier's answer was: "This is an old question that has been answered several times before in the house. For the instruction of the new M.L.A., let me say when the conditions of repayment, already made known to the interested parties, are complied with the return of the deposit will be made."

Recall proceedings were instituted in 1937. Petitioners filed a $200 deposit when they received petition forms. At a special session in the summer of 1937 the Recall Act was repealed. Application for refund of the $200 deposit was made by petitioners and they were informed that when they returned the lists' signatures, the money would be refunded. The lists, they were informed, would be later destroyed.

Work Will Hum Soon In Huge Aircraft Factory For Assembling, Repairs

Within the present month work will be humming in a huge aircraft factory on the north side of the Edmonton airport. In this plant, operated by Aircraft Repairs Ltd., Avro Anson, Fairey Battle and Harvard planes will be assembled and repaired. The factory also will be equipped to manufacture planes, engines and parts, as required.

At present, while the final stretches of concrete floor are being laid in the big 140,000-foot factory building, work on assembling Ansons and Fairleys is going ahead rapidly in No. 2 hangar on the west side of the airfield.

There, in a tiny floor space, craftsmen are assembling and turning out five planes a week, aircraft that are being shipped here from England and used for training at the navigation, bombing and gunnery and service flying schools of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan in western Canada.

HAVE BEEN SERVICED

Many of these planes have seen combat service in Europe and it is reported a number were in action during the fateful Battle of Britain, during the fateful Battle of France.

Packed in huge crates, these planes arrive here by rail. They are unpacked, assembled, tested by Pilot Archie McMullen of Mackenzie Air Service, then given an acceptance test by the R.C.A.F. at Heaton in a nearby station.

For a short time mechanics at the airport occasionally found fault with the packing but it was explained to them by Wing Commander A. C. F. Luke of No. 16 technical detachment, R.C.A.F., that men in airforce units in England had plenty of practice on working during air raids and they work under difficulties not known here. The restricted floor space of packing must be rushed in order to catch a convoy.

TO EMPLOY 300

The big factory will employ at least 300 workmen and key men are airplane mechanics trained in northern operations.

President of Aircraft Repairs Ltd., is W. Leigh Brintnell, general manager is Harry Hayter, a commercial pilot here for many years; superintendent, John J. Bowen, air engineer for many years with Mackenzie Air Service.

"There is a greater sprinkling of men in Edmonton who know what it's all about in connection with aircraft than in any other part of Canada," it was stated here by Wing Commander Luke. "They have been schooled in northern operations where they developed resourcefulness and they show the same resourcefulness in the factory that they showed in the north."

Wing Commander Luke, who saw service in the last war in the R.N.A.S., R.F.C. and R.A.F., is in charge of No. 16 technical detachment which supervises all technical work in Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. With a staff of several R.C.A.F. officers and civilian inspectors who are graduate engineers, the detachment is the liaison personel between the air force and the contractors. The detachment office is in Edmonton.

YOUNG MEN TRAINED

When assembly work started in No. 2 hangar, two riveters and a welder were turned out. This was quickly speeded up to five a week as the men became accustomed to the models.

"There were not more than three men in this hangar who ever saw an airplane before," it was stated by Sqpt. Jack Bowen. "But these boys learn quickly. We have engine men, instrument men and have trained them all."

PLANS BEING PREPARED FOR BANFF SCHOOL

As in previous summers the Banff School of Fine Arts will be conducted during August, Officials said Thursday that continued interest of the public in this project has made possible the securing of a permanent building in Banff as headquarters.

Heading the staff of instructors is the school is H. G. Clyde, A.R. C.A., A.S.A., of London, Eng., head of the art department of the Institute of Technology and Art, Calgary. In the program offered, provision is made for fine art and painting under the general auspices of the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art in co-operation with the extension department of the University of Alberta.

Nine district scholarships are offered this year by the committee in charge. These scholarships will have a value of $20 each as payment of fees for tuition in the art course. The Alberta Society of Artists will provide a scholarship to the amount of the tuition fee to be awarded to the artist whose work is judged the best. Contest is not restricted to young people or those attending school. The course will be under the direction of Mr. Clyde.

For further information, interested persons are asked to communicate with the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art, Calgary, or the extension department of the University of Alberta, Edmonton.

Bill Provides Regulation Of Trade Schools

Registration, inspection and regulation of operation of all trade schools in Alberta is provided for in a bill introduced into the legislature by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

Provision is made for amending and consolidating the Trade Schools Regulation Act and the present enactment is repealed. There has been a re-write of some sections to clarify their meaning and a few new sections have been added to facilitate both administration and enforcement.

Under the bill agents of trade schools are prohibited from canvassing within the province unless their trade school is registered under the act. Provision also is made for a government check on contracts made, instruction supplied and rates charged.

Wide powers are included for the lieutenant-governor-in-council regarding conduct, operation, management, standards of education and other matters.

Minister States Agriculturists Number Nineteen

During 1940 there were 19 district agriculturists employed by the provincial agriculture department, according to information given the legislature Thursday by Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture. His information was tabled in reply to a motion by John J. Bowlen, Ind., Calgary.

In 1936 and 1937 there were 16 district agriculturists; in 1938 there were 15 and in 1939 there were 20. In 1936 there were 10 on full time and six on part time; in 1937, 12 on full time and four part time; in 1938 there were 11 full time and four part time; in 1939 there were 11 full time and nine part time, and in 1940 there were 11 full time and eight part time.

Mr. McMillan, in reply to information sought by Mr. Bowlen, also tabled the names of full and part time employees in the years dealt with.

Alfred Hooke Is Deputy Speaker Of Legislature

Alfred J. Hooke, S.C., Rocky Mountain House was unanimously elected deputy speaker of the legislature at the opening of the Thursday sitting of the house.

Premier William Aberhart moved and Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of municipal affairs seconded, a resolution advocating that Mr. Hooke be elected to the post.

Without debate the motion was put to the house by Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson and Mr. Hooke was unanimously elected.

Mr. Hooke first entered the legislature at the general election of 1935 representing Red Deer. He was re-elected at the general election of March last year for Rocky Mountain House, a new constituency brought about by the redistribution bill put into effect at that election. He is a member of the Social Credit board. Special sessional allowance of $750 goes with the appointment.

BRITISH CLOSE KIEL CANAL BY AIR OPERATIONS

LONDON, March 7—(CP)—The Kiel canal, shortest route for German naval and shipping movements between the Baltic and North Sea, has been closed by British action to all but the smallest vessels, the air ministry news service said today.

The agency cited this as one result of mine-laying by the Royal Air Force and the fleet air arm. More than 100 Axis ships have been lost in less than 100 per cent of the areas covered by the aerial minelayers, it said.

One of these ships was a freighter which sank with a heavy load of ore in the Kiel canal last December, the news service reported. The wreckage blocked all canal traffic at all but the smallest ships, as disclosed by subsequent aerial reconnaissance, the service said.

The Kiel canal, cutting across the northwesternmost tip of Germany, is Germany's shortest route from the Baltic to the North Sea. Closing of this route would force deep draft ships to use the circuitous route around Denmark, through the Kattegat and Skegerrak.

The news service said that few ports, channels or estuaries from Norway to the Mediterranean had not been sown.

Officers Praise Efficiency Of City Garrison

Warm appreciation of the efficiency of the Edmonton Garrison encampment and its arrangements for caring for the men was expressed by both Major General W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., K.C., inspector-general of Canadian forces in Western Canada, and Brig. F. M. W. Harvey, V.C., M.C., district officer commanding, M.D. No. 13, following an inspection Thursday.

Both senior officers paid high tribute to Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant, on the excellent housing and messing accommodations. They were loud in praise of the splendid recreational facilities provided for the men by both the Canadian Legion War Service nut and the Salvation Army hut.

Citizen Receives Treatment After Falling On Street

Found lying face down about six feet from the curb at 95 street and 115 avenue by a cyclist riding north at 9 p.m. Thursday, Alex Mitchell, 12904 Fort road, was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital and treated for facial cuts after Const. Woodward of the city police was called by telephone.

The injured man was discovered by William Reynolds, 11619 97 street, who was riding a bike north along 95 street at 95 street and 115 avenue.

Spring seems to be rushing here at the rate of 24 hours a day. High temperatures and clear skies continue to favor Edmonton and from a 44 above maximum on Thursday, the mercury hit a low at 5:30 a.m. Friday of 30 above. At 8:30 a.m. the barometric pressure was 27.68, decreasing, the forecast continued "mild", and the temperature was 27 above. Temperatures average 25 above in the near north, and both ceiling and visibility are reported good.

REMAND GIVEN ON 2 CHARGES FOR ADJUSTER

Counts Set Over While Evidence Heard On Other Cases

Remand until March 12 was ordered by Magistrate Millar Friday morning after two more charges involving the adjustment irregularities, against Arthur R. Lilly, were heard.

Evidence was heard on a charge of false pretences in which accused is alleged to have falsely claimed $15 for towing of a salvaged car, after it was destroyed by fire in November, 1939.

Saskatchewan Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Ltd. is alleged to have been defrauded of the $15 by means of an adjuster's report, allegedly compiled by Lilly.

FALSE PRETENCES

Defence Counsel J. F. Lymburn, K.C., permitted evidence put in by the crown on the false pretences charge to apply to a second charge. This second charge alleges theft of $10 from the Saskatchewan Mutual Fire Insurance Co., arising out of the same transaction.

Court was proceeding with a third charge, alleging theft of $10 by accused, arising out of a claim for a car destroyed by fire in June, 1935.

Two Counts Are Withdrawn For Time

Withdrawal, temporarily, at least, of two charges against accused and remand until March 12 on a charge of conspiracy to defraud an insurance company of $50, featured hearing of charges against Arthur R. Lilly before Magistrate Millar in police court Thursday afternoon.

When Defence Counsel J. F. Lymburn, K.C., refused to permit evidence taken at the hearing of one charge to be applied in toto in a second charge of a different kind, Crown Agent Neil D. Maclean, K.C., asked the charges in question be withdrawn for the time being. Later, counsel intimated, new indictments may be brought in on the same counts.

The charges withdrawn concerned alleged theft of $42.85 and false pretences resulting in defrauding a company of $50.

CLAIM FOR TRUCK

On the second board Thursday afternoon Lilly is alleged to have conspired with E. Fielhaber and others to defraud the Homestead Insurance Co. of Canada in connection with a claim for a truck partially destroyed by fire in the spring of 1939. The truck was owned by L. R. Olson.

Through Fielhaber, who was bookkeeper at the firm of Fane-Robinson Ltd., accused was, at that time, it was shown the insurance company had been billed with a claim for $2,222, which had been paid. On the books of the repair company, however, the total amount charged for the work was $547.33, according to Fielhaber.

Fielhaber stated that Lilly had received the difference at the actual repair bill. A cheque for $50, made out to accused by the repair company, was produced and identified by the witness.

George Robinson, president of the Fane-Robinson Ltd. during the period in question, admitted he had endorsed the cheque in question but could not "remember" what it was for. He said it might have been a loan to Lilly.

Optimist Club Hears Speech On Synthetic Drugs

"Synthetic drugs of the last decade have saved the lives and health of hundreds of thousands of people," declared Dr. Clifford Ross, who spoke on "The Recent Developments In Synthetic Drugs" at the Optimist Club luncheon at the Macdonald hotel Thursday.

He said these developments have brought about a great co-operative enterprise, but after production of these life-saving enterprises they pass into more highly competitive fields. "The problem of the next decade will be to make these products available as economically as possible on some sort of co-operative basis," Mr. Lee concluded.

Hail Protection Clause Provided In Insurance Act

Amendments to the Alberta Insurance Act, including authority to extend hail insurance to cover field, garden and horticultural crops have been introduced into the legislature by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry. The bill states that by special endorsement, coverage may be extended to sweetfeed crops and to provide protection against loss from other causes.

Extension of the scope of the first fire insurance license to include certain individual hazards which are now commonly added to fire insurance policies by endorsement, is also included. Also included is authority to extend limitation of fire insurance policy terms to the case of mercantile and manufacturing risks from one year to three years.

The United States produces about 40 per cent of the world's copper output.

Through The Mill

"The farmer's in the jail and not in the dell," was about the only proper conclusion His Worship could reach after examining the record of a colored man charged with vagrancy in police court Friday. And that's what the court told the accused who pleaded he was a farmer when asked to explain his presence in Edmonton with no visible means of support.

* * *

"I farm for my brother-in-law," the accused asserted.

"But you haven't had time to do much farming," the court suggested after taking a peek at the record in front of him.

The accused said he had been working at a lumber mill in New Westminster last fall but when pressed by the crown on the matter, admitted he was in jail at the time. "I was working but wasn't drawing pay," the colored man corrected with a wide grin.

* * *

When picked up on the streets here the accused had a Mexican five pesos note in his possession. He declared to the court that a city detective had offered him 25 cents for the note but he had refused to sell it. The detective laughingly denied the story of accused.

Sentence of 30 days in jail, with the admonition to go to any farm he could when he is released, was the adjudication of the case.

* * *

A drunk who has been many times before the court, pleaded guilty and announced, "I'm going to pull out of town," which brought the quite rejoinder from the bench: "If you get 30 days you're certainly going to leave town all right." He was fined $20 and costs or 20 days with the option of 30 days in jail.

"Over The Top"

LETHBRIDGE, March 7—(CP)—This city's war savings certificate campaign continued to go "over the top" after workers had passed their objective of 2,500 pledges. Early Thursday 2,607 had been reported and a steady increase continued all day.

BILL PROVIDES PURPLE GAS FOR FARM USE

Distribution of purple-colored gasoline for use on farms, replacing the former coupon system, is provided for in a bill introduced into the legislature by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

The new bill gives police officers wide powers to check on possible law violations and tax evasions.

It is provided in regulations approved by order-in-council early this year, the net tax payable on gasoline for farm use, would be one cent a gallon as in previous years. The coloring plan is to be used instead of the coupon system brought into effect in 1936 for farmers who obtain fuel at the tax rate of one cent a gallon.

It is further provided in the bill that unless duly authorized by the minister of trade and industry in writing no fuel oil dealer or other person shall place, inject or introduce any dyes whatsoever in fuel oil for the purpose of coloring it purple "or any other agent, substance or thing for the purpose of or having the effect of coloring the said oil purple."

Every officer or police officer may without warrant examine the fuel tank or fuel supplies of a motor vehicle and take samples. They may immediately bring into court any driver found guilty of contravention of the law. The court may make order seizure and impounding of the motor vehicle, pending disposition of any charge for a violation of the act.

Speed-skating, fancy dress costumes, novelty races and fancy skating will make the annual winter sports carnival of the Jasper Place community league, Friday (tonight) at 8 p.m. one of the best in the history of the league, officials announced Friday. Members of the Glenora Skating Club will assist in the entertaining. Committee in charge is composed of Mrs. L. T. Mellon, Mrs. S. Graham, Mrs. R. J. MacKenzie and J. McCallum.

TYPOGRAPHICAL PROBLEMS ARE STUDIED HERE

Discussions on trade work and membership problems marked a meeting Thursday evening of members of the International Typographical Union, Edmonton Local No. 905, with Woodruff Randolph, secretary-treasurer of the international body.

Mr. Randolph's visit to the city was a short one. He arrived in Edmonton Thursday and left the city at midnight. His headquarters are in Indianapolis, and his next stop will be Vancouver, where arrangements for the annual convention will be made.

During the afternoon he was a guest of officials on a tour of the city. W. A. Burnett, president; G. E. Bowling, secretary-treasurer, and W. J. Tiplin, recording secretary, met the visitor in the morning and introduced him to officials of the city newspapers.

Covenants 1936 Are Declared To Be Null, Void

Covenants signed by farmers in 1936 are null and void and have been since 1937, according to Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

John Brondfield, Ind., Okotoks-High River, in the legislature Thursday, asked the following question: "Is it the intention of the government to enforce the Covenants Form F-1 signed by the farmers in 1936?"

Mr. Manning replied: "No. The covenants in question were mutual agreements, the fulfillment of which was wholly dependent upon the voluntary co-operation of those signing.

"No provision ever exkisted for their enforcement by law.

"They have been null and void since 1937 when the Social Credit Measures Act of 1936 was repealed."

These covenants committed the farmers signing them to turn over 50 per cent of their produce to the government, in return for which they would receive an equal value of Alberta credit.

Veteran of the First Great War and resident of Edmonton for the past 26 years, William Ward, 54, of 10744 104 street, died in the city Friday following a brief illness. Born in Morpeth, Eng., Mr. Ward served with the 218th Battalion, enlisting in Edmonton.

Before the war he was a member of the C.N.R.W.M.P. for about four years. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge No. 7, A.F. and A.M., and the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. He was employed in the C.N.R. ticket office here.

EVANS, CALGARY, AGAIN CHAIRMAN BOTTLER GROUP

W. R. Evans, Calgary, was re-elected chairman of the Alberta bottlers' (soft drinks) section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the annual meeting held Thursday in the board room of the association, Bank of Commerce building.

Members of the new executive included the chairman and B. Pearlman, Calgary; J. A. Price, Lethbridge; R. E. Haworth, Medicine Hat and R. V. Truax, Red Deer.

In company with other business, the bottling industry has expanded in the past year, Mr. Evans said in his annual report.

All plants of the 18 serated water industries in Alberta, he said, are well equipped and fully modernized.

In 1938, the last year for which statistics are available, gross value of production of the industry was $858,317. Capital investment was $747,810 and the 163 people employed were paid gross salaries and wages of $186,346. Cost of materials used was $309,610.

The association, Mr. Evans said, has maintained a constant watch on the fields of legislation, customs tariff, sales tax, insurance and industrial research.

Committee Urges No Alteration In Method Of Census

City council's bylaws committee decided Thursday to recommend to council that no change be made in the present method of preparing the civic voters' lists.

Edmonton's Local Council of Women had urged that in future only those who cast ballots at the preceding election and bargainers be placed on the voters' list. This recommendation was made in an effort to stimulate interest in municipal elections.

City commissioners pointed out that the annual census was necessary under the amalgamation agreement between North and South Edmonton, and also gave commissioners necessary information governing the city's population.

Edmonton's Taxpayers' Protective Association advocated the discontinuance of the census as a war economy. It would save approximately $3,000 annually, W. V. Race, association's secretary, stated.

Dakar Gold Will Be Sent To U.S. For Safekeeping

LISBON, March 7.—(AP)—Gold which the Vichy government sent to Dakar, French West Africa, at the time of the French collapse last June will be shipped to the United States for safekeeping, an informed source said Thursday.

The amount already in Lisbon was said to be worth approximately $10,000,000. This, it was said, had been brought by plane from Tangier and would be shipped to the United States.

Britain's Answer To Hitler's New Submarine Threat

A Corvette is very much like a destroyer. It is smaller and slower, but it carries same weapons and rides, see above, just as roughly. Britain will soon have many of them.

Iraq Oil Goal Of Nazi Spring Drive

An Iraq native gazes across at the Mosul wells of Iraq, which, some experts say, will be one of three goals Adolf Hitler will set for himself this spring. These experts say Der Fuehrer will send his troops through Bulgaria and Turkey to seek the precious oil for his war machine. Another goal will be the attempted wholesale sinking of British merchant ships by Hitler's U-boats. The third would be an attack on Gibraltar by a drive through Spain.

WAIT FOR ME

By KATHERINE MACY

BLONDE JAN MACLEOD, 20, caretaker's daughter on the ROBERT VAN VLIET Virginia estate, elopes with 21-year-old PETER VAN VLIET III, the owner's son. The couple go to New York City for their honeymoon but on the wedding night Peter gets a telephone call from AVIATOR JIM BROWNELL and explains to JAN that he has to leave her for a little while. "Wait for me, darling!" he says as he leaves the hotel room. On awakening the next morning Jan discovers Peter's bed has not been slept in. She telephones STEPHEN GARDNER, a newspaper reporter whom she met at the estate, and over breakfast she explains about Peter's leaving the hotel, but overlooks mentioning their marriage. Steve misunderstands and Jan, humiliated, flushes away from the table, telling him whatever he is thinking he is wrong and she doesn't need his help. Steve apologizes and gets enough money to pay Jan's hotel bill and carries back to Hollywood. Arriving home, she finds her father, ROB, had a heart attack and the doctor thinks he isn't going to pull through. Rob Macleod dies and Jan decides to return to New York and take a business course. Steve recommends that she live at Mother Malloy's rooming house where his sister, SUE, resides. He calls her for dinner her first night in New York, not remembering that she is Mrs. Peter Van Vliet. Jan says she is tired and Steve is offended. After several days of his silent treatment Jan realizes she has depended upon him and his friendship more than she had realized. Jan asks Steve to find JIM BROWNELL, who can tell Mr. Van Vliet of Peter's whereabouts. Steve calls for Jan, and they go to the Van Vliet house. Steve reveals that Peter tried to enlist in the Canadian air corps but was thwarted in his attempt to do so. Jan sees the story later in the newspaper and says she's never going to speak to Steve again. After a reconciliation, Steve tells Jan he loves her. Peter and Jim Brownell, he announces, took off from somewhere on the Canadian coast, bound for France.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

"HOW long," asked Jan as she and Steve pulled up at Mother Malloy's, "will it take Peter and Jim to fly across the Atlantic?"

"We should hear by tomorrow afternoon. Depends on the weather. There's no radio in the plane, and anything in the way of news will have to come from the other end."

Jerry Halligan was turning the radio dials as they went in. An announcer's voice sounded suddenly. "Further developments on the mystery flight of Jim Brownell and Peter Van Vliet III: A British freighter bound for Montreal has just reported that a plane, presumably that of the American flyers, has been sighted about 300 miles off the Canadian coast, headed east."

"Hold that, Jerry," called Steve, piloting Jan into the room. The police went on. "This is the first news of the flyers since they slipped away early this afternoon. Flying conditions are bad over the north Atlantic."

Jan put her hand to her mouth. Steve noticed, and took her away quietly. In the dim light of the hall she looked up at him. For the second time that evening she was glad that he was with her.

It was good to have someone take care of her. She reached out her hands and he covered them with both of his.

"You're swell, Steve," she said breathlessly. "Thank you." Impetuously, she stood on tiptoe and kissed him quickly on the lips.

They stood there until a door opening into the hall made them break apart. "See you tomorrow," said Steve under his breath.

Sue woke her the next morning to tell her that Steve had called. "He asked me not to wake you, darling, but he'll meet you outside your school at five. Run along and forget your troubles!"

FAIR JOB

That was easier said than done, though Jan did a fair job with her shorthand that day. When she went out to lunch, she ignored the newspaper headlines . . . only glanced at them once to make sure Peter and Jim had not yet landed in France.

Steve was waiting for her in the lobby of the school building at five. He said immediately, "No news. But how would you like to go down to the office and watch the ticker for a while? Something might come in during the next hour or so."

"Your office, the Globe?" she asked, surprised.

"Sure. I'd like to be around when the word comes in."

He seemed just as brusque and off-hand as usual. Had he forgotten that moment in the hall last night? Jan was relieved, yet a bit hurt. Hadn't it meant anything to him, after all?

WENT UP STEPS

The editorial rooms of the Globe were on the second floor of the paper's old building, far downtown. Steve went up the steps ahead of her, two at a time. "Elevator's too slow," he called over his shoulder.

He opened the gate into the city room for her. Tables with typewriters were strewed around the square space.

At the far side by the windows was a semi-circular copy desk where several copyreaders in green eye-shades were bent over their paps. None of them looked up as Steve and Jan entered.

Steve took her to a desk in the corner, and introduced her to a short, dark man who sat there in his shirt sleeves. "My boss and city editor, Frank Saunders," he said.

"Miss Macleod, Frank. I . . . you've heard about her?" Jan realized with a sense of wonderment that he was proud to bring her here.

"Now that I see her, I don't wonder," murmured Saunders, rising gallantly. Jan wondered confusedly what Steve had told about her. Was he taking too much for granted about what lay between them? She was not even sure what that was.

But she did know that she could not, she had no right to, let him grow certain of her. She must tell him the truth, tonight. But when, how?

Steve introduced her to several reporters, who looked at her critically and then with obvious approval. "We want to look at the ticker," Steve told them, leading her beyond the sale to a small, glass-enclosed room.

In it were several machines printing steadily on streamers of narrow paper which were falling in waves along the floor. Steve picked up one or two of them and looked them over before a copy boy appeared to tear them off and take them to the telegraph desk.

"Nothing so far," he said. "Let's wait in here." They sat on straight chairs, watching the printers as they bounded along, automatically snapping back to begin again as each line of type was finished.

"Another British freighter sunk," said Steve, his eyes following the words as they were typed. "Here, look!"

Together they leaned over the paper, where the words were forming. "Canadian air officials report no word of James Brownell and Peter Van Vliet III on flight to France, for the past 10 hours. They are several hours overdue. Weather conditions poor. Heavy fog over North Atlantic."

STEVE WATCHES

Jan drew a long, trembling breath. Steve watched a little longer, then said, "That seems to be all for now, Jan, I'm awfully sorry." He stopped, then burst out, "Oh, hang it, I'm not very sorry! I'm not calloused enough to say I'm hoping something happened to Peter Van Vliet, but I simply cannot see why you care anything about him either!"

Jan made up her mind, and, having decided, relaxed with a sort of relief. "I have to care," she said.

"I don't get you."

Her eyes wandered past the glass wall of the room. Typewriters were clicking softly outside. Several men were pecking at them, another going into a telephone booth.

She caught the eye of the city editor, who grinned at her. "Why did you ask me to come here tonight?" she asked irrelevantly.

EXPLANATION

"What? Oh, to show you off to the boys, I guess. Why do you suppose? But look here, what were you driving at, when you said you have to care about Peter?"

"Remember that morning when I telephoned you, the first time? When I told you I had come to New York with Peter and that he had left me at the hotel?"

"Am I likely to forget it?" he asked grimly.

"I don't think so. I had driven up here with him the night before, from Hollymount. We got here in the morning. But, before that, on the way, we were mixed up in a little town in Virginia." She knew she was telling it badly, but it had to come out somehow.

He dropped his cigarette on the floor and ground it out under his heel carefully. "So that's it."

"Yes. That day, we shopped and did some signseeing. I'd never been to New York before, you know. We went to the theatre, and just after we got back, someone telephoned. I know now that it was Jim Brownell. Peter talked to him, tried to make up his mind what to do, then left me. I haven't seen him since."

When he did not, she finally exclaimed, almost angrily, "Steve, don't you understand? Of course, I have to care what happens to Peter! He . . . he's my husband!"

Mrs. Hilliard sat in the East position. Her partner opened the deuce of hearts, and when North played low, Mrs. Hilliard put on the queen, not the jack. Immediately the declarer assumed that West held the jack of hearts. South won the trick with the ace and took a diamond finesse, which Mrs. Hilliard refused to win.

Now a spade was won by declarer with the ace and a spade returned. Mrs. Hilliard winning with the king. She could see that a club exit would be too slow, as a diamond could be established for a heart discard. So she quickly pushed out the five of hearts.

Now, our expert in the South, reading West for the jack of hearts, thought that if she played the ten-spot, West would cover with the jack and she would have to lose a trick to the nine-spot. There was a possibility, however, that East might hold the nine of hearts, and in that case, if South played low, the jack would be trapped.

So South did play low, West played the nine and dummy's king won. But now declarer must still lose the ace of clubs, the king of diamonds and the jack of hearts, and the contract was defeated.
